a) Read the poem below and answer the questions that follow

Oh whisper, O my soul! The afternoon
Is waning into evening, whisper soft!
Peace, O my rebel heart! For soon the moon
From out its misty veil will swing aloft!
Be patient, weary body, soon the night
Will wrap thee gently in her sable sheet,
And with a leaden sigh though wilt invite
To rest thy tired hands and aching feet.

The wretched day was theirs, the night is mine
Come tender sleep, and fold me to thy breast.
But what steals out the gray clouds like red wine?
O dawn! O dreaded dawn! O let me rest

Weary my veins, my brain, my life! Have pity
No! Once the harsh, the ugly city! By Claude McKay

KCSE TRIAL AND PRACTICE EXAM
July 2019
English - Paper 2

1. COMPREHENSION (20MKS)

Read the following passage and answer the questions that follow.

We are often advised to be confident; confidence comes when we feel passionate about what we perform, what we have achieved, and what we can offer

Lack of confidence can hinder a lot of things, ranging from how you get ahead in your career to the number of skills you are able to acquire. It is determining factor in the way you direct your career. Confidence is conveyed from inner to the outer through the words you speak and the posture you assume. Building confidence is not a one day affair. Neither does it take other people to build your confidence.

I remember an interview I once conducted for secretaries, and the memory of one woman is intact. She stammered from the point she entered the office to the moment she left. Thinking that it was interview jitters, we called her again, based on her technical qualifications rather than her presentation. She presented the same problem. We settled on a different candidate because confidence was a key qualification for the job which involved dealing with clients and colleagues.

Not many entry-level and first-time job seekers are coached or tutored on how to gain more self-confidence. Instead, we tell them to “attend a few events, meet more people, and get the hang of it”. That is not the right approach. Often, by the time you get “get the hang of it,” you will have probably ruined a few chances, stepped on a few toes, and generally spoilt a few opportunities. Confidence starts from within, which means working with yourself to find an effective method on your capabilities. Having had quite some experience interviewing and being interviewed, I have developed there sure-fire ways that not only help me before an interview, but improve my general self-confidence. You must start with one as you progress and eventually build your own self-confidence.

I learnt that confidence begins with pushing yourself towards positive attitude. Before an interview, I tell myself that I am capable of great things, great performance, and that the interview is only a little chat I must have to get the job. Not only do I talk myself into entering the interview room, but I also talk myself into achieving success, whether or not I need the job. About 90 percent of the time, I have been successful in interviews.

Doubting oneself only leads to criticizing oneself, which plants deep roots that can be almost impossible to weed out. My mentor always used to say, “You are what you think you are”

Secondly, beginning with one small step rather than giant leaps will ensure that you tackle interviews and first jobs with a lot of self- confidence. There are two ways to go through this.

The first one has to do with something that you like doing, such as writing a song. However, this should not be just any some but a new one created out of your love for music. My personal pre-interview confidence boost is to cook something that I have never tried before. This boosts my self-confidence to new levels. After achieving that particular goal, you must pat yourself on the back.

The third step to building confidence involves holding onto that little surge of confidence. Once you have tackled what you have previously found to be difficult, then the next step would be to focus on building your self confidence a lot further.

Ensure that this becomes not only a monthly confidence boost, but a daily one because as we are all programmed, we must build our self-confidence habitually to maintain it. Routines have been known to help anybody to acquire and maintain confidence.

2. DRAMA: A DOLLS' HOUSE by Henrik Ibsen

Nora: What right have you to question me, Mr. Krogstad? – You, one of my husband's subordinates! But since you ask, you shall know. Yes, Mrs Linde is to have an appointment. And it was I who pleased her cause, Mr. Krogstad, let me tell you that.

Krogstad: I was right in what I thought then.

Nora: (walking up and down the stage) Sometimes one has a tiny little bit of influence, I should hope. Because one is a woman, it does not necessarily follow that-anyone is in a subordinate position, Mr. Krogstad, they should really be careful to avoid offending anyone who-who-

When

Krogstad: Who has influence?

Nora: Exactly

Krogstad: (changing his tone) Mrs. Helmer, you will be so good as to use your influence on my behalf.

Nora: What? What do you mean?

Krogstad: You will be so kind as to see that I am allowed to keep my subordinate position in the bank.

Nora: What do you mean by that? Who proposes to take your post away from you?

Krogstad: Oh there is no necessity to keep up the pretence of ignorance. I can quite understand that your friend is not very anxious to expose herself to the chance of rubbing shoulders with me; and I quite understand, too, whom I have to thank for being turned off.

Nora: But I assure you-

Krogstad: Very likely; but, to come to the point, the time has come when I should advise you to use your influence to prevent that.

Nora: But, Mr. Krogstad, I have no influence.

Krogstad: Haven't you? I thought you said yourself just now-

Nora: Naturally I did not mean you to put that construction on it. !! What should make

You think I have any influence of that kind with my husband?

Krogstad: Oh, I have known your husband from our student days. I don't suppose he is any more unassailable than other husbands.

Nora: If you speak slightly of my husband, I shall turn you out of the house.

Krogstad: You are bold, Mrs. Helmer

Nora: I am not afraid of you any longer. As soon as the New year comes, I shall in a very short time be free of the whole thing.

Krogstad: (Controlling himself) Listen to me, Mrs. Helmer. If necessary, I am prepared to fight for my small post in the bank as if I were fighting for my life.

Nora: So it seems.

Krogstad: It is not only for the sake of the money; indeed, that weighs least with me in the matter. There is another reason - well, I may as well tell you. My position is this, I daresay you know, like everyone else, that once, many years ago, I was guilty of indiscretion.

Nora: I think I have heard something of the kind.

Krogstad: The matter never came into court; but every way seemed to be closed to me after that. So I took to the business that you know of. I had to do something; and, honestly, I don't think I've been one of the worst. But now I must cut myself free from all that. My sons are growing up; for their sake I must try and win back as much respect as I can in the town. This post in the bank was like the first step up for me - and now your husband is going to kick me downstairs again into the mud.

Nora: But you must believe me, Mr. Krogstad; it is not in my power to help you at all.

Krogstad: Then it is because you haven't the will; but I have means to compel you.

3. ORAL NARRATIVE (20MKS)

Read the narrative below and answer the questions that follow.

Long, long time ago animals and birds spoke just like men do. When God had to stop them speaking, he made birds sing, like this chrrip! Chrrip....Lions to roar like this graagh! Graagh! And hyenas to howl like this huuu! Huuuu!

And you blame God? Listen to what naughty hyena who had gone two days without any meal did. He had been wandering up and down the hills when he suddenly stopped, nose in the air, one foot raised.

Do I smell, eh..... smell food? He slowly raised his head to the skies as if to say, "Please God, let me find some food, even one rotting bone will do" Slowly, he followed the smell, sniffing hard, stopping now and again, over grinning wide as the smell became stronger. "Here at last", he said as he came in sight of a calf that seemed dead, flies buzzing over its excrement.

"God, no time to waste. Who knows the owner may be around. Oh, no, I see it is secured to a tree with a "Mukwa" I'll take my time.

Ha, I am tired too, come to think of it. God gave us pretty strong senses of smell, generous old.... Man.

Still I do think some people tend to exaggerate, now who was it saying the other day 'ati' God is the giver of everything and that we should be grateful. O.K.

Tell me, did God give this calf? Did you God? I found it myself, smelled my way there, all the way. Nice calf too, rather thin but it will do. I'll take the head home and make soup with herbs. I especially like 'muthathii, and I see one over there.

Ok. Here we go, where shall I start, this lovely neck: No, I know, I will start with the 'mukwa' then I'll get on to the soft stuff, the tail, the rump, 'Mahu'....."

After chewing up half of the 'mukwa' the hyena brushed his teeth with the twig of a 'muthiga' a tree to stimulate his appetite. He stepped on the calf's tail, stuffed it in his mouth and 'snap it went. The calf which was only very sick and tired shot up and bolted away in the twinkling of an eye.

The hyena rubbed his eyes, ambled after the disappearing calf and soon fell down in exhaustion. He looked up again to the heaven, tried to speak but no words came. Hyenas have never been able to speak ever since...

KAPSABET BOYS HIGH SCHOOL
KCSE TRIAL AND PRACTICE EXAM
July 2019
English - Paper 2

1. Read the passage below and then answer the questions that follow.

We are moving inexorably into the age of automation. Our aim is not to devise a mechanism which can perform a thousand different actions of any individual man, but, on the contrary, one which could, by a single action, replace a thousand men.

Industrial automation has moved along three lines. First, there is conveyor belt system of continuous production whereby separate operations are linked into single sequences. The goods produced by this well-established method are untouched by the worker, and the machine replaces both skilled and semi-skilled.

Secondly, there is automation with feedback control of the product. Here mechanisms are built into the system which can compare the output with a norm, that is, the actual product with what it supposed to be, and then correct any shortcomings. The entire cycle of operations dispenses with human control except in so far as monitors are concerned. One or two examples of this type of automation will illustrate its immune possibilities. There is a factory in the USA which makes 1,000 million electric lights bulbs a year, and the factory employs three hundred people. If the pre-automation were to be employed, the labour force required would leap to 25000. A motor manufacturing company with 45000 spare parts assembles their entire supply entirely by computer. Computers can be entrusted with most of the supervision of industrial installations, such as chemical plants or oil refineries.

Thirdly, there is computer automation, for banks, accounting departments, insurance companies and the like. Here the essentials features are recording, storing and retrieval of information.

The principal merit of modern computing machines is the achievement of their vastly greater speed of operation in comparison with unaided human effort; a task which otherwise might take years, if attempted at all, now takes days or hours.

One of the urgent problems of industrial societies rapidly introducing automation is how to fill the time that will be made free by the machines which will take over the risks of the workers. The question is not simply of filling empty time but also of utilising the surplus human energy that will be released. We are already seeing straws in wind: destructive outbursts on the part of the youth whose work no longer demands muscular strength. While automation will undoubtedly do away with a large number of tedious jobs, are we sure that it will not put others which are equally tedious in their place? An enormous amount of monitoring will be required. A man in an automated plant may have to sit for hours on end watching dials and taking decisive action when some signals inform him that all is not well. What meaning will his occupation bear for the worker? How will he devote his free time after a four or five hour stint of labour? Moreover, what, indeed, will be the significance of his leisure to him? If the industry of the future could be purged of its monotony and meaninglessness, man would then be better equipped to use his leisure time constructively.

Helmer: When did my squirrel come home?

Nora: Just now (puts the bag of macaroons in to her pocket and wipes her mouth.) Come in here, Torvald, and see what I have bought.

Helmer: Don't disturb me. (A little later, he opens the door and looks into the room, pen in hand.) Bought, did you say? All these things? Has my little spendthrift been wasting? Money again?

Nora: Yes but, Torvald, this year we really can let ourselves go a little. This is the First Christmas that we have not needed to economize

Helmer: Still you know, we can't spend money recklessly.

Nora: Yes, Torvald, we may be a wee bit more reckless now, mayn't we? Just a tiny wee bit! You are going to have a big salary and earn lots and lots of money.

Helmer: Yes after the New Year; but then it will be a whole quarter before the salary is due.

Nora: Pooh! We can borrow until then.

Helmer: Nora! (Goes up to her and takes her playful by the ear) The same little featherhead! Suppose now, that it borrowed fifty pounds today, and you spent it all in the Christmas week and then on New Year's Eve a slate fell on my head and killed me, and-

Nora: (putting her hands over his mouth) Oh don't say such horrid things.

Helmer: Still, suppose that happened,--what then?

Nora: If that were to happen, I don't suppose I should care whether I owed money or not.

Helmer: Yes, but what about the people who has lent it?

Nora: They? Who would bother about them? I should know who they were.

Read the following passage and answer the questions that follow

Problem drinkers and alcoholics pay severe penalties for their drinking. It has been estimated that alcoholics are likely to die ten to twelve years sooner before the age of fifty which is one reason There are so far elderly alcoholic The mortality rate (that is the number of persons per 100,000 who die each year) among alcoholics is more than two and a half times higher than that of the general population.

Alcoholics often die under violent circumstances, serious accidents; homicide and suicide are not uncommon. This together with the physical deterioration accompanying alcoholism, helps explain

The limit on life expectancy. No one really knows how many deaths are directly attributed to drinking and all such statistics are estimates. One reason for our limited knowledge is that many physicians do not report alcoholism as the main cause of death out of concern for the feelings of the family of the deceased.

Research on physiological effects of alcoholism has increased in the last four years. Heavy drinking is known to be associated with various types of cancer, particularly among persons who also use tobacco. Alcohol abuse also increases the probability of hypertension, stroke and coronary heart disease.

Alcoholics frequently suffer illness and death from cirrhosis of the liver, a disease in which the liver becomes fatty, scarred and incapable of functioning normally. In large urban areas, cirrhosis is the fourth most common cause of death among men aged twenty five to forty five

Alcohol affects the brain, often permanently damaging the mental functioning of alcoholics, Drinking may reduce the number of living cells in the brain, since brain cells do not grow back, alcoholics may suffer from organic psychosis (a mental illness traceable to brain damage) loss of memory and poor physical and mental coordination. One out of four persons who are admitted to mental hospital are diagnosed as alcoholics and 40 percent of all admissions are alcohol related. Many of the alcoholic inmates are not likely to recover.

The unborn children of female alcoholics are subject to harm from drinking in what is called foetal alcohol syndrome. Because alcohol tends to be a substitute for a balanced diet, alcoholics are often malnourished .Consequently the infants of alcoholic women are likely to be less healthy and less well Developed than other babies moreover, when a pregnant woman drinks so in effect, does her feotus. The new born children of alcoholic women may die shortly after birth unless they are medically treated from the shock to their system for suddenly being cut off from alcohol, Furthermore, the impact of alcohol on the woman and her foetus is a major cause of death among the new borns. The effects of foetal alcohol syndrome on the children of female alcoholics are usually chronic and may be permanently disabling Clearly, it is not too much of an exaggeration to say that alcohol is a highly dangerous drug.

POETRY

"NATURALLY"

I fear the workers. They writhe in bristling grass
And wormy mud out with dawn, back with dusk
Depart with seed and return with fat-bursting fruits
And I ate the fruit

And still they toil at boiling point
In head-splitting noise and threatening
They suck their energy from slimy cassava
And age-rusty water taps: till they make a Benz

And I ride in the Benz: Festooned with Stripped rags and python copper coiling monsters
While the workers clap their blistered hands
And I overrun their kids
They build their hives: often out
Of broken bones of fallen bones
And I drove in them-"state house"
Then "collegize" them officialize them
And I....I whore their daughters
Raised in litter-rotting shovels
And desiring a quick quick high high life life
To break the bond

And I tell the workers to unite
Knowing well that they can't see, hear or understand
What with secret and grim sealing their ears

And eyes already blasted with welding sparks
And are speaking a colourless tongue

But one day a rainstorm shall flood
The litter rotten hovels and Wash the workers ears and eyes clean
Refresh the tattered muscles for a long-delayed blow

MANG'U HIGH SCHOOL
KCSE TRIAL AND PRACTICE EXAM
July 2019
English - Paper 2

1. Comprehension

Read the passage below to answer the question that follow.

CULTURE AND INTEGRATION

There is a curious conflict in our world today. The mass media and sophisticated jet travels have made it possible for millions in the world to learn about different countries, their attractions, problems and the people's ways of life. At the same time, many societies are trying to safeguard and develop their unique cultures in response to the onslaught of foreign values. Are these developments actually contradictory or can they exist side by side comfortably.

To some people accessibility to different cultures helps to foster greater understanding between peoples. However, other people feel that tourism, for example is the source of a dangerously superficial view of society. These two camps differ as to what mental image is carried by the tourist. The latter will argue that tourists merely carry memories of game parks, wild animals, waiters, tour guides and curio sellers, but not anything of substance as regards values of the local people. Similarly, it is felt that mass media reports and features do not always portray a positive picture of developing countries which had embraced tourism as an industry.

As a reaction to this controversy, some countries have rightly adopted an attitude of skepticism when it comes to exposing people to foreign ideas and to be a calculated scheme by foreign media to water down developing countries' attempts to revive their culture and uplift their standards of living. In no known tradition of human society can one find absolute preservation for the sake of preservation for we learn from the past in order to have a clear picture of the present and map out strategies for the future.

Culture like language is dynamic. The change occurs when people from different communities came into contact with each other thereby exchanging various aspects of culture. The change that a particular people incorporates in their culture should be that which would make it easier for the particular people to live in harmony with themselves and the larger human community.

Within countries themselves, there may also be a struggle to retain ethnic identities, while at the same time aiming for national unity. There is a lot to be said for natural diversity of languages and dialects within a country; such variety is healthy. There has also to be acceptance of the fact that some individuals will marry outside their ethnic groups and bring about a compromise between language and customs. Unfortunately such compromises are often fiercely resisted, with one group claiming that its ways are superior to that of another group. Such attitudes cannot be changed overnight.

However, through individual personal relationships, such barriers can gradually disappear; that is where the young people of today come in. Their education and experience combined, will gradually produce a generation confident in its own ways and receptive to other people and ideas. Therefore, to solve the conflict mentioned earlier, there is need for the younger generation to develop a deeper understanding and appreciation of each other's cultures. However, in all this, the indigenous culture must take the central position. Like a sturdy tree. We need to sink deep roots then branch outwards seeking sources of growth otherwise our cultures will wither and perish.

Questions:

- a) Explain in your own words the conflict mentioned by the writer at the beginning of the passage. (2mks)
- b) Why can tourism provide a superficial view of the country? (2mks)
- c) Why do developing countries object to their people being exposed to foreign ideas and values. (2mks)
- d) In what situation might cultural conflict arise within a country according to the writer. (2mks)
- e) What is the solution to the conflict according to the writer. (2mks)
- f) What is the relationship between education and culture according to the passage. (2mks)
- g) Does the writer believe in purity of culture? Give reasons for your answer. (2mks)
- h) Identify and explain the use of a metaphor in the passage. (2mks)
- i) Give the meaning of the following words as used in the passage. (4mks)

- i) Sophisticated
- ii) Embraced
- iii) Map out strategies
- iv) Dynamic

Nora: What do you want, then?
Krogstad: I will tell you. I want to rehabilitate myself, Mrs. Helmer; I want to get on; and in that your husband must help me. For the last year and a half I have not had a hand in anything dishonourable, amid all that time I have been struggling in most restricted circumstances. I was content to work my way up step by step. Now I am turned out, and I am not going to be Satisfied with merely being taken into favour again. I want to get on, I tell you. I want to get into the bank again, in a higher position. Your husband must make a place for –

Nora: That he will never do!
Krogstad: He will; I know him; he dare not protest. And as soon as I am in there again with him, then you will see! Within a year I shall be the manager's right hand. It will be Nils Krogstad and not Torvald Helmer who manages the bank.

Nora: That's a thing you will never see!
Krogstad: Do you mean that you will - ?
Nora: I have courage enough for it now.
Krogstad: Oh, you can't frighten me. A fine, spoilt lady
Like you –
Nora: You will see, you will see.
Krogstad: Under the ice, perhaps? Down into the cold, Coal-black water? And then, in the spring, to float up to the surface, all horrible and unrecognizable, with your hair fallen out –
Nora: You can't frighten me.
Krogstad: Nor you me. People don't do such things
Mrs. Helmer. Besides, what use would it be? I Should have him completely in my power all The same.
Nora: Afterwards? When I am no longer-
Krogstad: Have you forgotten that it is I who have the Keeping of your reputation? (NORA stands speechlessly looking at him). Well, now, I have Warned you. Do not do anything foolish. When Helmer has had my letter, I shall expect a message from him. And be sure you remember that it is your husband himself who has forced me into such ways as this again. I will never forgive him for that. Goodbye, Mrs. Helmer. (exit through the hall) Nora: (goes to the hall door, opens it slightly and listens) He is going. He is not putting the letter in the box. Oh no, no! that's impossible!

(opens the door by degrees) what is that? He is standing outside.
He is not going downstairs. Is he hesitating? Can he - ?(A letter

3. Read the Oral Narrative below and answer the question that follow.

One day, elephant came across Squirrel on the path to the river. The proud and lordly Elephant swept Squirrel off the path with his trunk, rumbling, "Out of my way, you of no importance and tiny size," Squirrel was most offended, as he had very right to be. Stamping his little feet in a rage, he decided that he was going to try and teach Elephant some manners.

"Ho!" shouted Squirrel indignantly, " You may be very proud and I be you think you're the greatest animal on earth, but you are much mistaken!"

Elephant looked around in surprise. " I am mistaken. Squirrel," he rumbled. " I am the greatest and everyone knows it."

Let me tell you something Elephant, " said Squirrel, angrily and flicking his tail, " I may be small, but I can eat ten times as much as you! I challenge you to an eating contest and I bet you that I, Squirrel can eat more palm nuts and for a longer time than you, high and mighty Elephat!"

Elephant roared with laughter. He was so amused, in fact he accepted the creature's challenge. Beside he was rather fond of palm nuts.

So both animls collected a huge pile of palm nuts and agreed to start the contest the very next morning at the first light. Elephant could hardly wait. He even skipped his evening meals of acacia pods so as to be truly empty for morning. He intended to put Squirrel firmly in his place, once and for all.

The next day dawned fine and sunny, as it often does in Africa, and the two contestants started to eat. Elephant munched steadily through his pile, with fine appetite. Squirrel nibbling away furiously, was soon full to bursting. Quietly, he slipped away, sending a cousin who was hiding nearby to take his place. Elephant was so absorbed in his greedy task that he didn't even notice. Brothers, sisters, cousins, uncles, aunts, one hungry Squirrel after another took a turn at the pile of palm nuts.

Eventually, at midday, Elephant looked up, "Well, Squirrel, haven't you had enough yet?" he asked, surprised to see his small adversary still busy eating. Not only was he still eating, but his pile of palm nuts were disappearing almost as fast as Elephant's own.

"Not yet," rambled Squirrel his mouth full "and you?" "Never" replied Elephant scornfully. And he started to eat a little faster. By the time the sun was setting, elephant was so full. He could hardly stand. He looked over to where Squirrel (the original Squirrel, who had come back after a day of sleeping in a nearby tree) was still eating more palm nuts. Elephant groaned.

Truly you are amazing, Squirrel" he said, "I cannot go on, and I'm forced to admit that you have won the contest." And he lifted his trunk in salute. Squirrel hopping with delight, thanked Elephant and told him not to be so proud in future, and from that day to this, Elephant has always shown great respect for Squirrel.

a) Read the following Ankole song and answer the questions that follow.

Suck and I hide you, my gentle one
Suck and I hide you, my beloved
I dreamt that the hunt was at Buganga
I dreamt that the hunt was at Ngarama

Where, oh where, shall I put, my little baby?
Where, oh where, shall I put you, my lovely little lips?
If I put you in a clump of grass, my gentle one

The hunters' rough dog will come sniffing around
The hunters' thick club tears up the back
Suck and I hide you, gentle one
Suck and I hide you, for whom the drum sounds
Where, oh where, shall I put you, my lovely little lips?
Where, oh where, shall I put you, my beloved?

If I put you by the wayside, gentle one
Passers-by will take you with them, my beloved
If I put you in an anthill, my little baby

The ants will enclose you in their nest, lovely little lips
Suck and I hide you, little baby
Suck and I hide you, my gentle one

When I am dead and gone, gentle one
Feed on little blades of grass like cow, my beloved
And wash them down with a little water, my little baby
That's what raises orphans, you for whom the drum sounds

If I do not die, my little baby
Good things will be ours to enjoy, you for whom the drum sounds

TRIAL AND PRACTICE EXAM
July 2019
English - Paper 2

COMPREHENSION

Read the passage below and answer the questions that follow

Even though tattoos are sometimes associated with rebellion, they have long standing history among community. Tahitians, for instances used tattoos as a permanent way of preserving their culture and to show social ranking. Early Christians, on the other hand, often had the sign of a cross tattooed on their bodies, particularly their faces and arms, representing a permanent mark of the believer's faith.

The word 'tattoo' is derived from a Tahitian word tatau that means to mark. Tatau has been suggested to be the onomatopoeic sound tap, tap made by the tapping of a tattoo instrument as it works on skin while 'au' is associated with the cry of pain a person gives when being tattooed.

The first ever tattoo to be found on a human being was found on a mummified iceman in 3,300BC with 58 tattoos on his body, which contained lines and dots. This is nothing, however, compared to Scottish Tom Leopard, recorded as the world's most tattooed person, with 99.9 percent of his body covered in leopard, skin design. Guinness world records record that the only part of his body that remained is the skin between his toes and inside of his ears.

When receiving a tattoo, the skin is pierced between 50 to 3,000 times per minute by a needle in the tattoo machine. Most tattoo machines consist of four parts: the needle, the tube that holds the ink, an electric motor, and a foot pedal that controls the movement; almost similar to how a sewing machine works.

Sterilization and disposable materials are crucial to tattooing because tattoos are created by thousands of puncture marks to the skin, each of which could be infected. The autoclave is a safe popular way to sterilize any tattoo equipment that is not disposable. A combination of heat, steam and pressure kills all bacterial and organisms to prevent infection.

In the 18th and 19th centuries, tattoos were dangerous to have. European 'head hunters' caused a terror by collecting tattooed Maori heads. As the odd sport became popular, more Maoris were murdered to meet the demand. In the time, slaves began being tattooed so that their heads could be cut off and sold. Luckily, however, Christian missionaries in the Cook Island condemned the practice of tattooing quoting the Bible "....do not cut your bodies for the dead or put marks on yourself....." They tried to stamp out the custom going as far as trying to remove tattoos by rubbing the skin with sandstone in a practice was known as 'holy stoning'. This was the primitive forerunner to modern tattoo removal known as dermabrasion, where the skin is 'sanded' to remove layers, dermabrasion has now largely given way to laser surgery as a popular means of tattoo removal.

While tattoos bring colour to humanity, research has shown that unclean tattooing practices can transmit diseases such as hepatitis B. Some pigments used in tattoos contain metals that can cause pain during a Magnetic Resonance Imaging (MRI) test, or even affect the resulting MRI image. Because of the possible negative effects tattoos pose to humans, those keen on getting one have to be very careful before they get one. That said, it is important to note that presently, many tattoo artists earn a good living out of the art.

2. Read the excerpt below and then answer the questions that follow. (25 marks)

Krogstad: Are you aware that is a dangerous confession?
 Nora: In what way? You shall have your money soon.
 Krogstad: Let me ask you a question: Why did you not send the paper to your father?

Nora: It was impossible: papa was so ill. If I had asked him for his signature, I should have had to tell him what the money was to be used for: and when he was so ill himself, I couldn't tell him that my husband's life was in danger – it was impossible.

Krogstad: It would have been better for you if you had given up your trip abroad.

Nora: No, that was impossible. That trip was to save my husband's life. I couldn't give that up.

Krogstad: But did it never occur to you that you were committing a fraud on me?

Nora: I couldn't take that into account: I didn't trouble myself about you at all. I couldn't bear you, because you put so many heartless difficulties in my way, although you knew what a dangerous condition my husband was in.

Krogstad : Mrs. Helmer, you evidently do not realise clearly what it is that you have been guilty of. But I can assure you that my one false step, which lost me all my reputation, was nothing more or nothing worse than what you have done.

Nora: You? Do you ask me to believe that you were brave enough to run a risk to save your wife's life?

Krogstad: Foolish or not, it is the law by which you will be judged, if I produce this paper in court.

Nora: I don't believe it. Is a daughter not to be allowed to spare her dying father anxiety and care? Is a wife not to be allowed to save her husband's life? I don't know much about law: but I am certain that there must be laws permitting such things as that. Have you no knowledge of such laws – you who are a lawyer? You must be very poor Mr Krogstad.

Krogstad: Maybe. But matters of business – such business as you and I have had together – do you think I don't understand that? Very well. Do as you please. But let me tell you this – if I lose my position a second time, you shall lose yours with me. (He bows and goes out through the hall) Nora (appears buried in thought for a short time, then tosses her head) Nonsense! Trying to frighten me like that! – I am not so silly as he thinks. (begins to busy herself putting the children's things in order) And yet? No it's impossible! I did it for love's sake.

Questions:

- a) Briefly describe the dangerous confession Nora admits to in the onset of the excerpt.
(3 marks)
- b) Explain why Nora did not send the paper to her father for signing.(3

The inmates
Huddled together
Cold biting their bones,
Teeth chattering from the chill,
The air oppressive,
The smell offensive
They sit and they reflect

The room self-contained,
At the corner the 'gents' invites
With the nice fragrance of ammonia,
And fresh human dung,
The fresh inmates sit thoughtfully.

Vermin perform a guard of honour,
Saluting him with a bite here,
And a bite there,

'Welcome to the world, they seem to say.

The steel lock of the door,
The walls insurmountable
And the one torching tortorous bulb
Stare vacantly at him.
Slowly he reflects about the consignment
That gave birth to his confinement
Locked in for conduct refinement
The reason they put him in the prison.

The clock ticks
But too slowly
Five years will be a long time
Doomed in the dungeon
In this hell of a cell

KENYA HIGH SCHOOL
KCSE TRIAL AND PRACTICE EXAM
July 2019
English - Paper 2

1. Read the passage below and then answer the questions that follow.(20 MARKS)

Happiness arises largely from the mental qualities of contentment, confidence, serenity and active good-will. It includes the pain of losing as well as the pleasure of finding. It thrives best in a crowded life. The men and women who are recorded in history and biography as the most happy were with always somewhat more to do than they could possibly do. Every waking hour of their lives was occupied with ambitious projects, literature, love, politics, science, friendship, commerce, professions, trades, their religious faith, and a thousand other matters. The secret of happiness may be found by making each of these interests count to its utmost as part of the fabric of life.

We need to avoid the extremes of sluggish placidity and feverish activity. We are not going to be satisfied with felicity which resembles that of a stone, unfeeling and unmoving, but will look back from future years with sorrow and regret if we run to and fro, giving in to what Socrates called 'the itch'.

Happiness obviously includes two sorts of behavior: active and passive. We may say that the active part consists in searching and sharing, while the passive part is made up of security and possession. Neither part is complete in itself, nor yields full satisfaction if it is over-emphasized. Philosophers from the ancient Greeks to the present day have been extolling a balanced life as the happiest life, and many unhappy people can, when they face the issue, trace their discontent to imbalance.

The recipe for happiness cannot be given in any single word because its many virtues have to be combined in their proper quantities, at the proper times for proper purposes.

It is legitimate to seek happiness. We cannot help observing that while followers of some schools of thought are telling us to avoid seeking happiness, they intimate that if we do so, we shall be happy.

The search requires a plan. We need to know what sort of happiness we seek, what the ingredients are, what are our strongest wants, and what we have to start with. We should train ourselves to keep the programme simple, and free from complications and side trips, to pay attention to little things, to deflate quickly after being praised and to bounce back quickly from disappointment, to seize to create opportunities to put our special abilities to work, to seek excellence in everything we do, to remain modest, and to review and revise periodically.

Most of us do not really have to seek far and wide. Happiness grows at our own fireside, if we cultivate it.

- a) According to the writer, what is the source of happiness? (1mks)
- b) What two sorts of behaviour does happiness include? (2mks)
- c) What does the writer mean when he talks about a balanced life? (1mk)
- d) In a paragraph of about 30 words, summarize the things we must know as we search for happiness. (4mks)
- e) Explain the irony in the passage. (2 marks)
- f) Explain the writer's point in the last paragraph of the passage. (2mks)

- f) The recipe for happiness cannot be given in any single word.

i) Explain the meaning of the following words as used in the passage:

(3mks)

i) Extolling

ii) Intimate

iii) Felicity

iv) legitimate

2. Read the passage below and answer the questions after it.

(25 marks)

Mrs Linde: Do you mean never to tell him about it?

Nora: (meditatively, and with half smile) Yes – someday, perhaps, after many years, when I am no longer as nice-looking as I am now. Don't laugh at me! I mean, of course, when Tovald is no longer as devoted as he is now; when my dancing and dressing-up and reciting have palled on him; then it may be a good thing to have something in reserve – (breaking off) What nonsense! That time will never come. Now, what do you think of my great secret, Christine? Do you still think I am of no use? I can tell you, too, that this affair has caused me a lot of worry. It has by no means easy for me to meet my engagements punctually. I may tell you that there is something called, in business, quarterly interest, and another thing called payment in installments, and it is always so dreadfully difficult to manage them. I have had to save a little here and there, where I could, you understand. I have not been able to put aside much from my housekeeping money, for Tovald must have a good table. I couldn't let my children be shabbily dressed; I have felt obliged to use up all he gave me for them, the sweet little darlings!

Mrs. Linde: So it has all had come out of your own necessities of life, poor Nora?

Nora: Of course. Besides, I was the one responsible for it. Whenever Tovald has given me money for new dresses and such things, I have never spent more than half of it; I have always bought the simplest and the cheapest things. Thank Heaven, any clothes look well on me, and so Tovald has never noticed it. But it was often very hard for me, Christine – because it is delightful to be well dressed, isn't it?

Mrs. Linde: Quite so.

Nora: Well, then I have found other ways of earning money. Last winter I was lucky enough to do a lot of copying to do; so I locked myself up and sat writing every evening until quite late at night. Many times I was desperately tired; but all the same it was a tremendous pleasure to sit there working and earning money. It was like being a man.

Mrs. Linde: How much have you been able to pay off in that way?

Nora: I can't tell you exactly. You see it is very difficult to keep an account of a business matter of that kind. I only know that I have paid every penny that I could scrape together. Many a time I was wits' end (smiles) Then I used to sit there and imagine that a rich old gentleman had fallen in love with me –

Mrs. Linde: What! Who was it!

Nora: Be quiet! – that he died; and that when his will was opened, it contained, written in big letters, the instruction: "The lovely Mrs. Nora Helmer is to have all I possess paid over to her at once in cash."

- a) Where and when does this encounter take place? (2marks)
- b) What is this secret that Nora wants to guard so jealously? Explain with evidence from elsewhere in the play. (3 marks)

HE PROMISED ME HEAVEN.

He promised me heaven
As side by side walked we down the aisle
As the chime of the wedding bell brightened the day
As sweet – sounding songs soothed our souls
As he held my hand and inserted this ring into my finger
I knew that my heaven had come
For then he promised me heaven.

As we sat close and cherished our moon of honey
As he whispered cream icing into my ears
Dramatically conjuring metaphor after metaphor
Humming lullaby after lullaby
How elated I felt for being so much elevated
For here he was, my guardian angel
To take me to heaven
For he promised me heaven

As one year later he slapped me again and again
I quickly forgave and forgot
For he was my idol
Who had promised me heaven
Even as the floodgate of blow after blow
Kick after kick
Opened from its cage of disaster

Defacing and eroding the beauty he so much praised Converting me into a shell of torture
How patiently I clung to him
Anticipating the heaven he had promised me
Now as I lie in the hospital bed
Unable to rise from his violent battery
Waiting for the Angel of Death
I realize he kept his promise
For I am soon going to heaven
Because he promised me heaven.

English - Paper 2

1. Read the passage provided below and answer the questions that follow:
(20mks)

Years ago scientists warned that a hole in the layer of ozone surrounding the earth could have serious effects on human health and the environment. In the 21st century, it is imperative that global warming and ozone layer depletion form a monstrous combination in climate change. Ozone layer depletion does not cause global warming, but both of these environmental problems have a common cause: human activities that release pollutants into the atmosphere altering it. Global warming is caused primarily by putting too much carbon dioxide into the atmosphere when coal, oil, and natural gas are burned to generate electricity or to run our cars. Ozone depletion occurs when gases formerly found in aerosol spray cans and refrigerants are released into the atmosphere. The ozone layer sits in the upper atmosphere and absorbs ultraviolet radiation, another type of solar energy that's harmful to humans, animals and plants. Since the 1960s, there has been a trend of increasing warming of the lower atmosphere and a cooling of the upper atmosphere. This dynamic creates conditions that lead to ozone loss. Largely because heat from Earth's surface that normally would convey through the lower and upper atmosphere, and eventually escape to space is now being trapped.

Depletion of the ozone layer has significant outcomes to plants and animals on earth. Phytoplankton form the foundation of aquatic food webs. Exposure to solar UVB radiation has been shown to affect both orientation and motility in phytoplankton, resulting in reduced survival rates for these organisms. This radiation has been found to cause damage to early developmental stages of fish, shrimp, crab, amphibians, and other marine animals leading to decreased reproductive capacity and impaired larval development. Increases in UVB radiation could affect terrestrial and aquatic biogeochemical cycles, thus altering both sources and sinks of greenhouse and chemically important trace gases. These potential changes would contribute to biosphere-atmosphere feedbacks that mitigate or amplify the atmospheric concentrations of these gases.

To halt the depletion of the ozone layer, countries around the world agreed to stop using ozone-depleting substances such as halons, carbon tetrachloride and methyl bromide. Although this is not a uniformly positive story since it has indirectly led to new problems such as climate change; the reduction in ozone-depleting substances has had a beneficial side-effect. Ozone-depleting substances are also very potent greenhouse gases, contributing to the phenomenon as other substances widely known to have a greenhouse effect like carbon dioxide (CO₂), methane (CH₄) and nitrous oxide (N₂O). Therefore, by diminishing emissions of ozone-depleting substances, both the ozone layer and the climate have been protected at the same time.

Mrs. Linde: Listen to me Nora you are still very like a child in many things, and I am older than you in many ways and have a little more experience. Let me tell you this-you ought to make an end of it with Doctor Rank.

Nora : What ought I to make an end to?

Mrs. Linde: Of two things I think. Yesterday you talked some nonsense about a rich admirer who was to leave you money-

Nora : An admirer who doesn't exist, unfortunately! But what then?

Mrs. Linde: Is Doctor Rank a man of means?

Mrs. Linde: And comes here every day?

Nora : Yes, I told you so.

Mrs. Linde: But how can this well-bred man be so tactless?

Nora : I don't understand you at all.

Mrs. Linde: Don't prevaricate, Nora. do you suppose I don't guess who lent you the two hundred and fifty pounds?

Nora : Are you out of your senses? How can you think of such a thing? A friend of ours, who comes here every day! Do you realize what a horribly painful position that would be?

Mrs. Linde: Then it really isn't he?

Nora : No, certainly not. It would never have entered into my head for a moment. Besides, he had no money to lend then; he came into his money afterwards.
Mrs. Linde: Well I think that was lucky for you, my dear Nora.

Nora : No, it would never have come into my head to ask Doctor Rank. Although I am quite sure if I had asked him-

Mrs. Linde: But of course you won't.

Nora : Of course not. I have no reason to think it could possibly be necessary. But I am quite sure that if I told Doctor Rank-

Mrs. Linde: Behind your husband's back?

Nora : I must make an end of it with the other one, and that will be behind his back too, I must make an end of it with him.

Mrs. Linde: Yes, that is what I told you yesterday, but-

Nora : (walking up and down) a man can put a thing like that straight much easier than a woman.

Mrs. Linde: One's husband, yes.

Nora : Nonsense! (standing still) When you pay off a debt you get your bond back, don't you?

Mrs. Linde: Yes, as a matter of course.

Nora : And can tear it into a hundred thousand pieces and burn it up- the nasty dirty paper.

Mrs. Linde: (looks hard at her, lays down her sewing and gets up slowly.)

Nora you are concealing something from me.

Nora : Do I look as if I were?

Mrs. Linde: Something has happened to you since yesterday morning. Nora, what is it?

Long ago, there was famine in Gikuyu land. This famine had made the cows and goats to die. Only human beings were left and even them, it could be seen that they were not going to live much longer. Now the people asked themselves, "What shall we do?" It was decided that the most beautiful girl, one called Wanjiru should be sacrificed to god so that the rain could fall. She was brought to a place where there was a big river. She started to sing:

Rain fall and make this ridge green

Make this ridge green
My father said I should be lost. I should be lost
My mother said I should be lost. I should be lost

Rain fall and make this ridge green
Make this ridge green
She went down on her knee, she sang:
Rain fall and make this ridge green
Make this ridge green
My father said I should be lost, I should be lost
Rain fall and make this ridge green
Make this ridge green
The water reached the waist, she sang
Rain fall and make this ridge green
Make this ridge green
My father said I should be lost, I should be lost
My mother said I should be lost, I should be lost
Rain fall and make this ridge green
Make this ridge green

The water reached the neck, she sang
Rain fall and make this ridge green
Make this ridge green
My father said I should be lost, I should be lost
My mother said I should be lost, I should be lost
Rain fall and make this ridge green
Make this ridge green
The head went in

Very heavy rains fell on this land. The grass grew, a lot of food and the people began to feel better. Now where Wanjiru went she found her people who had died before her. These people had a lot of cows and goats. Now they asked her what she would like. She said she wanted cows and goats. She was given many goats and cows and then she was told to lie down in a place. When she woke up she found that she had returned back to her people. She woke up at a place where there was a river and she had her cows and goats. Now when the people saw her they rejoiced greatly.

The story ends there.

ORAL NARRATIVE

People Should Mind Their Own Business

There was once a man who was a trapper and he used to set his traps and catch birds and small animals in the forest. Now, this man had a wife. And every day, he set out to go to the forest. Whenever he caught something, like a guinea fowl, he would go and sell part of what he had caught and other part he would take home to eat. With the money he got from selling some of the creatures he caught, he bought rice for himself and his wife to eat.

As time passed, he began to trap some really big animals and birds. He would slaughter them and, as usual, take some of the meat to the market to

to his house to eat. He always bought rice for their food. One day he caught a number of rabbits. He slaughtered them and sold some of the meat.

But the trapper's wife never found the liver in any meat of which he brought home. This is because the trapper had made a pact with a beast of the forest: 'You do the trapping and catching...me, I will keep an eye on your trap here and whatever you trap, what is inside is for me and the flesh is for you.'

So the wife never found the liver and began to wonder. She said to the trapper, "What kind of husband are you, then? Every day you bring me game meat and what do you do with the livers of all these animals?" He answered her, "My wife, one shouldn't get involved in other people's affairs; one should mind one's own business. Be content with what I bring you and don't go around asking unnecessary questions." But the woman wouldn't listen. She said to herself, "I'll follow him."

So, one day the man went out and set his trap. He had set his trap out there and the woman didn't know where the trap was. She came walking, kwah-kwah-kwah! and the lion was there, the one which had made a pact with the man that whatever was caught, the tripe or innards would be for it and the flesh for the man. Anyway, here was the woman, walking, walking and walking, and then, all of a sudden, huruuuu-kwi! The trap caught her. There she was, held up by the head, her legs dangling down.

Now, her husband was coming along, far behind her. "Oh, oh, my friend!" exclaimed the lion when it saw him arrive, "Today we've caught a really big animal! We always catch small animals but today we've got the real one, the two-legged one!"

"Oh, no!" said the man, "Don't say that. This is my wife." "No, no, no," said the lion, "I am not going to have any of that. We've agreed that of whatever comes here, what is in the stomach is mine and the flesh is yours. I can't allow you to back out now."

The Hare was passing by and the man called him. "Hey, Hare, come and help us to settle this." The Hare came and asked the woman, "Now, how did you get up there?" "Well, I was passing here like this, just passing like this and..."

"Wait a minute," said the Hare. "Let's set her free first, so that she can show us, this woman, how she got caught up in the trap."

So, they left the woman off the trap and the Hare set it exactly as it had been before she got caught in it. Then he said to the Lion, "Maybe you can show us how this woman got caught in the trap."

The Lion said, "Sure. She came walking like this, like this and like this and then stepped on the trap and then it went huruuuu-kwi and caught her. Hey, look here my friend," said the Lion, "Set me free at once."

The Hare laughed and said, "No way!" then he turned to the woman and said, "Now you, make yourself scarce at once!" the woman turned and ran all the way home without even looking back once.

Later, when the trapper came home, he said to his wife, "That was a narrow escape, wasn't it? Your inquisitiveness and suspicion nearly got you into trouble."

Well, that's it. It isn't me who made up the stories; it's the people of long ago.

1. COMPREHENSION: (20MKS)

Read the following passage and then answer the questions that follow:

There is nothing as important as a pregnant woman getting all the emotional support she can get during pregnancy. It makes her appreciate the pregnancy and in turn care of it well, says Dr. Maxwell Okonji.

The doctor talked to Pregnant Magazine on how you can use your mental muscle to handle any pregnancy misgivings.

"Once you discover that you are pregnant, you need to be optimistic", says Dr. Okonji. Positive handling of a pregnancy is one of the surest ways of carrying it to term, minus health complications. He adds: "Stress and worry, which are bound to accompany the numerous emotional and physical changes that come along with pregnancy, can lead to depression".

Depression, particularly during pregnancy, often drains your energy, which can prevent you from seeking appropriate prenatal care. Depressed pregnant women are more likely to abuse alcohol or drugs during the term. When it is most severe, depression can lead to self harm and even suicide. Are you depressed?

Persistent feelings of sadness, self-pity and hopelessness during the pregnancy are common. The feeling could be accompanied by difficulty in sleeping or oversleeping, weight loss or change in appetite, irritability or mood swings; difficulty in concentration, characteristic or bizarre behaviour, and thoughts of self-harm.

You may notice that you have become unusually hostile and fight with your spouse often with no prompt.

Feeling as though you could do without the pregnancy at that time and that it is the reason that is constantly making you angry.

Having a mental condition; before pregnancy, make depression more likely during pregnancy. Again, if during a previous pregnancy – a woman showed signs of depression, chances are that when she falls pregnant again, it will recur.

In cases where depression is severe with prompting to suicide, termination of the pregnancy may be called for. This is purely on medical grounds. This usually happens during the first three months. Termination should, however, be a last resort, after other modes of treatment have failed.

In the first three months of pregnancy, it is not unusual for a pregnant woman to have to experience nausea and vomiting.

These are very frustrating to the mother, particularly if it's a first pregnancy. During this time, it is normal to have mood changes like touchiness and irritability overfriendliness to certain people and nastiness to others is a normal occurrence. This happens to a varying extent and not to all women.

After the third month or so, those early signs of pregnancy and the mood changes disappear. The middle trimester, from four to six months, is a stable time for most women, with little or no problems during that time. The second and third trimester present more mood changes as the mother begins to feel the baby and in turn prepares to receive her. Mood changes are quite normal and do not pose any threat to the pregnancy however, in case you as a woman notice that the moods border on the extreme, then it is recommended that you talk to a counselor.

WILFRED OWEN

Dulce Et Decorum Est.

Bent double, like old beggars under sacks,
Knock-kneed, coughing like hags, we cursed through sludge,
Till on the haunting flares we turned our backs
And towards our distant rest began to trudge.

Men marched asleep. Many had lost their boots
But limped on, blood-shod. All went lame; all blind;
Drunk with fatigue; deaf even to the hoots.
Of disappointed shells that dropped behind.

GAS! Gas! Quick, boys!—An ecstasy of fumbling,
Fitting the clumsy helmets just in time;
But someone still was yelling out and stumbling
And floundering like a man in fire or lime.—
Dim, through the misty panes and thick green light
As under a green sea, I saw him drowning.

In all my dreams, before my helpless sight,
He plunges at me, guttering, choking, drowning.

If in some smothering dreams you too could pace Behind the wagon that we flung him in,
And watch the white eyes writhing in his face,
His hanging face, like a devil's sick of sin;
If you could hear, at every jolt, the blood
Come gargling from the froth-corrupted lungs,
Obscene as cancer, bitter as the cud
Of vile, incurable sores on innocent tongues,—
My friend, you would not tell with such high zest
To children ardent for some desperate glory,
The old Lie: Dulce et decorum est
Pro patria mori.*

*Latin for: It is sweet and fitting to die for one's country.

So they went to the river to wash themselves. When they had washed, they lay themselves on the rock to dry. They put on oil that people wore when they are going to dance. In the end, when they were fully dressed, the louse said to his friend: " Let us see how your new girdle fits with your new sword. Hmmm! I think it looks alright but you should tighten it a bit more..." and when he heard that the safari ant tighten the belt more and more until he made a deep groove on his waistline. The louse was beside himself with laughter when he saw how tight the belt was. He laughed until his nose cracked. Ha! Ha! Ha! And therefore both insects could not go to the dance.

KCSE TRIAL AND PRACTICE EXAM
July 2019
English – Paper 2

QUESTION 1-

20 MARKS

Read the passage below and answer the questions that follow:

Domestic workers.

Most households, especially those in urban areas, employ domestic workers. But this workforce is frequently invisible because each one of them is employed separately and works in the seclusion of private house unlike people working in a factory or in the streets.

The term and conditions of their employment are often exploitative and illegal. Often, their personal documents such as identity cards are confiscated, they are employed while underage, salaries are below the minimum wage, and they often have no time off as required by the law. They are also subjected to illegal deductions or they may be paid through third parties.

It is estimated that there are as many as 200,000 child domestic workers in Kenya. Out of these, 90% are girls working in homes unfortunately, they are not protected by the law and they do not exist as a group. As a result, they do not have the power to negotiate for better terms and conditions of work.

Due to their 'invisibility' domestic workers are regarded as belonging to the informal labour market, are unregistered and do not feature in employment statistics. They are a group that never come together to discuss issues arising from their work' in other situation and this may be the reason why their call for protection may never be heard.

The younger domestic workers face greater difficulty because employers often insist on paying them in kind claiming to 'take care of them in return for their work'. In other instances, the pay for an under – age worker may go directly to the parent or guardian without the knowledge or consent of the employee.

The domestic worker also experiences physical, psychological and emotional torture, living in so much poverty among people who enjoy luxurious lives. In some households, they are only allowed to eat what is left over by the family members and to sleep on the kitchen floor.

The law is, however, silent on the plight of the domestic worker especially those who are too young to enter into a valid employment contract. What is needed at the moment are clear cut labour laws that would effectively address the situation. Besides, the public needs to be sensitized on the right of domestic workers. The prevailing harsh economic times have seen more children dropping out of school to look for work to supplement family incomes.

2. Read the passage below and answer the questions after it. (25 marks)

Mrs Linde: Do you mean never to tell him about it?

Nora: (meditatively, and with half smile) Yes – someday, perhaps, after many years, when I am no longer as nice-looking as I am now. Don't laugh at me! I mean, of course, when Tovald is no longer as devoted as he is now; when my dancing and dressing-up and reciting have palled on him; then it may be a good thing to have something in reserve – (breaking off) What nonsense! That time will never come. Now, what do you think of my great secret, Christine? Do you still think I am of no use? I can tell you, too, that this affair has caused me a lot of worry. It has by no means easy for me to meet my engagements punctually. I may tell you that there is something called, in business, quarterly interest, and another thing called payment in installments, and it is always so dreadfully difficult to manage them. I have had to save a little here and there, where I could, you understand. I have not been able to put aside much from my housekeeping money, for Tovald must have a good table. I couldn't let my children be shabbily dressed; I have felt obliged to use up all he gave me for them, the sweet little darlings!

Mrs. Linde: So it has all had come out of your own necessities of life, poor Nora?

Nora: Of course. Besides, I was the one responsible for it. Whenever Tovald has given me money for new dresses and such things, I have never spent more than half of it; I have always bought the simplest and the cheapest things. Thank Heaven, any clothes look well on me, and so Tovald has never noticed it. But it was often very hard for me, Christine – because it is delightful to be well dresses, isn't it?

Mrs. Linde: Quite so.

Nora: Well, then I have found other ways of earning money. Last winter I was lucky enough to do a lot of copying to do; so I locked myself up and sat writing every evening until quite late at night. Many times I was desperately tired; but all the same it was a tremendous pleasure to sit there working and earning money. It was like being a man.

Mrs. Linde: How much have you been able to pay off in that way?

Nora: I can't tell you exactly. You see it is very difficult to keep an account of a business matter of that kind. I only know that I have paid every penny that I could scrape together. Many a time I was wits' end (smiles) Then I used to sit there and imagine that a rich old gentleman had fallen in love with me –

Mrs. Linde: What! Who was it!

Nora: Be quiet! – that he died; and that when his will was opened, it contained, written in big letters, the instruction: "The lovely Mrs. Nora Helmer is to have all I possess paid over to her at once in cash."

Suckle your finger my child, keep your screams restrained

Suckle your finger my child, keep your screams restrained
Keep the knives of pity from tearing my heart
Don't cry my child
Suckle your tiny finger
I will lullaby you to sleep
Once more we shall cheat this monster that is hunger.

Sleep well my child

Papa loves you, papa cars
Papa is broken in body and soul
But don't worry my child
Sleep is a good meal
Sleep well my child
Dream the sweetest dreams
Dream of abundant fruit
Feast well my child
Feast on your tiny dreams
Yet another day is gone.
Hush!
Don't cry my child
Wake up! It's a new dawn
Smile; today is a feast
Suckle your mother's breast
There is a trickle of milk
From the furbished breast.

English - Paper 2

1. COMPREHENSION

Read the passage below and answer the questions that follow

The process of developing social skills among children at an early age is important. Researchers have cited rejection by peers as the greatest challenge children face in their quest to build meaningful social skills. It has been reported that children who get bullied and snubbed by peers are more likely to have problems in relating with others. In recent times, researchers have found at least three factors in a child's behaviour that can lead to social rejection. The factors involve a child's inability to pick up on and respond to nonverbal cues from their pals. In the United states 10 to 13 percent of school-going children experience some form of rejection by their peers. In addition to causing mental health problems, bullying and social isolation can increase the likelihood of a child getting poor grades, dropping out of school,, or developing substance abuse problems.

It is reported that the social skills that children gain on the playground or elsewhere could show up later in life, according to Richard Lavoie, an expert in child social behaviour. He says that children experiment with the relationship styles they will have as adults during unstructured playtime-when children interact without the guidance of an authority figure. Researchers say that the number-one need of any human is to be liked by other humans. However, researchers have expressed concern that our children are like strangers in their own land. They don't understand the basic rules of social behaviour and their mistakes are usually unintentional.

Children who face rejection may have problems in at least one of three different areas of nonverbal communication, which is the reason they are rejected. These are reading nonverbal cues; understanding their social meaning; and coming up with options for resolving a social conflict. A child, for example, simply may not notice a person's scowl of impatience or understand what a tapped foot means. In another situation, a child may have trouble reconciling the desires of a friend with her own. Anyone trying to help children on their social skills should try to pinpoint the weaknesses a child has and then build those up.

When children have prolonged struggles with socializing, "a vicious cycle begins," children who are shunned by others have few opportunities to practice social skills whereas popular children have more than enough opportunities to perfect theirs.

However, having just one or two friends can be enough to give a child the social practice he or she need.

Parents, teachers and other adults in a child's life can help, too. Instead of reacting with anger or embarrassment to a child who, say, asks Aunt Vera if her new hairdo was a mistake, parents should teach social skills with the same tone they use for teaching numeracy skills or proper hygiene.If presented as a learning opportunity, rather than a punishment, children usually appreciate the lesson. It is important to note that most children are so desperate to have friends that they just jump on board.

To teach social skills, Lavoie advises a five-step approach in his book. The process works for children with or without learning disabilities and is best conducted immediately after a wrongdoing has been made. First, ask the child what happened and listen without judgment. Second, ask the child to identify their mistake. Often children only know that someone got upset, but don't understand their own role in the outcome. Third, help the child identify the cue they missed or mistake they made, by asking something like: "How would you feel if Emma was hogging the tyre swing?" Instead of lecturing with the word "should," offer options the child "could" have taken in the moment, such as "You could have asked Emma to join you or told her you would give her the swing after your turn." Fourth, you can create an imaginary but similar scenario where the child can make the right choice. For example, you could say, "If you were playing with a shovel in the sand box and Aiden wanted to use it, what would you do?" Lastly, give the child "social homework" by asking him to practice this new skill, saying: "Now that you know the importance of sharing, I want to hear about something you share tomorrow."

Krogstad: (Controlling himself) Listen to me, Mrs. Helmer. If necessary, I am prepared to fight for my small post in the Bank as if I were fighting for my

- life.
- Nora: So it seems
- Krogstad: It is not only for the sake of the money; indeed, that weighs least with me in the matter. There is another reason-well, I may we well tell you. My position is this. I daresay you know, like everybody else, that once, many years ago, I was guilty of an indiscretion.
- Nora: I think I have heard something of the kind.
- Krogstad: The matter never came into court; but every way seemed to be closed to me after that. So I took to the business that you know of. I had to do something; and, honestly, I don't think I've been one of the worst. But now I must cut myself free from all that. My sons are growing up; for their sake I must try and win back as much respect as I can in the town. This post in the Bank was like the first step up for me – and now your husband is going to kick me downstairs again into the mud.
- Nora: But you must believe me, Mr. Krogstad; it is not in my power to help you at all.
- Krogstad: Then it is because you haven't the will; but I have means to compel you.
- Nora: You don't mean that you will tell my husband that I owe you money?
- Krogstad: Hm! – suppose I were to tell him?
- Nora: I would be perfectly infamous of you. (Sobbing) To think of his learning my secret, which has been my joy and pride, in such an ugly, clumsy way – that he should learn it from you! And it would out me in a horribly disagreeable position-
- Krogstad: Only disagreeable?
- Nora: (Impetuously) well, do it, then! – and it will be the worse for you. My husband will see for himself what a blackguard you are, and you certainly won't keep your post them.
- Krogstad: I asked you if it was only a disagreeable scene at home that you were afraid of?
- Nora: If my husband does get to know of it, of course he will at once pay you what is still owing, and we shall have nothing more to do with you.
- Krogstad: (Coming a step nearer) Listen to me, MrsHelmwe. Either you have a very bad memory or you know very little of business. I shall be obliged to remind you of a few details.

3. Read the following narrative then answer the questions that follow

(20mks)

Once upon a time Hare and Hyena were very good friends. They visited each other every day and herded their cows together.

There came a time when the cows started dying one after the other. The two friends wanted to find out why the cows were dying. Hare said, 'Let us go and kill our mothers and take out their livers. We shall then cook and taste these livers. The bitter liver will show whose mother was making the cows die. At once Hyena went and killed his mother. He took out the liver and cooked it. Hare went and hid his mother in the garden in bushy banana plants. He then went and killed an antelope, took out its liver and cooked it.

The two friends met to eat their livers. "My liver is very bitter", said the Hyena. "Mine is very sweet," said Hare, "So it was your mother who was making the cows die." Hyena kept quiet and went home feeling sad. He moved from the old house to a smaller one because now he had no mother. Hare did the same

After a short time, there was great famine in the land. The two friends decided that each of them was to look for food on alternate days sharing, on an equal basis what was available. When it was Hyena's turn, he went and found only honeycombs without any honey. When Hyena brought these, Hare refused this because he had secretly gone to his mother who had given him some bananas. This went on for many days, and Hyena grew thinner and thinner. Then he started wondering. "How does my friend remain fat and he doesn't eat anything. I will find out."

One day he followed Hare. Hare went to his mother as usual. 'Mother, mother, I have come' and the mother dropped some bananas which Hare ate quickly. He then looked for some honeycombs and took them to the friend. "This is all I could find my friend." The Hyena kept quiet. The next day he went to the banana plant and called. His voice however was very deep and no bananas were dropped for him.

There was an old hyena who was staying at the end of the forest and used to give advice to people. So Hare's friend went to her and told her his problem. "Go and put your tongue on the path of black ants," He was told, "Let them bite your tongue until it hurts. That's how your voice will be soft."

Hyena went and did as he was told. When he went to Hare's mother his voice was as soft as Hare's. "Mother, mother I have come." And Hare's mother dropped bananas for him. Then he told her to come and greet him. When she came down and saw it was

Hyena she screamed but there was nobody near to help. Hyena killed her immediately. Hyena went and met Hare as usual saying nothing about Hare's mother. The following day it was Hare's. "Mother, mother I have come." And Hare's mother dropped bananas for him. Then he told her to come and greet him. When she came down and saw it was Hyena she screamed but there was nobody near to help. Hyena killed her immediately.

Hyena went and met Hare as usual saying nothing about Hare's mother. The following day it was Hare's turn. He went to his usual place. "Mother" he called again. He climbed up. There was nobody. Having seen some blood on the ground, Hare knew what had happened to his mother.

When Hare got back to Hyena's house, he said nothing. At night, Hare took all cows including Hyena's and went away to live in another part of the country. That ended the Hare and Hyena's friendship. And that is the end of my story to you.

KCSE TRIAL AND PRACTICE EXAM

July 2019

English - Paper 2

1. COMPREHENSION (20MKS)

Read the passage below and answer the questions that follow.

The plan by the national government to import doctors and other health specialists from Cuba to plug a "shortage" of workers has been warmly welcomed by county government through the council of governors.

In the deal, the national government will pay the medics' salaries while the counties foot the transport, accommodation and security bill.

As per the 2010 constitution, which ushered in devolution, health was to be managed as a shared responsibility between the two levels of government in a vertical and horizontal manner.

But the transition authority, in this hurry, devolved health and seconded healthcare workers to counties without proper legal framework to address the challenges of this complicated cadre.

Devolution was meant to increase inclusivity and have resources enjoyed at the local level without political favors as it had been. Previously, many areas had been neglected, with little access to healthcare professionals, let alone specialists.

At the height of devolution debate, the drafters of the constitution agreed to have healthcare shared so that marginalized parts of the country would get the necessary attention through efforts such as equalization funds.

As rightly captured in the Bomas Draft, a health service commission (HSC) was to be informed to ensure issues of personnel are dealt with at the national level. This was in a bid to have adequate resource sharing, proper retention of scarce resources (specialists) and promotion of training to achieve the recommended population-to-health worker ratio.

The commission was, however, somehow excluded from the Constitution by the committee of experts in a process that lacked wide participation.

As it were, the devolution of healthcare was done hurriedly and the chicken has come home to roost. It is clear that something has gone very wrong with the management of this important national resource. Health sector strikes which should rightly be frowned upon, have become common place. The media are awash with reports of tribalism, nepotism and “countysm” in recruitment. Lack of equipment, medication and common supplies is also rampant. The national government stepped in with medical equipment leasing (MES) scheme, which saw high-tech tools and machines supplied to much-unprepared institutions, putting to question the whole structure of what exactly is devolution of health.

One must still support the tension of devolution but question its implementation. Unable to attract, train and retain specialists, the counties are salivating at the prospect of receiving “free” Cuban doctors. This is a clear admission that the devolved units are quite incapable of managing this vital resource.

Accepting human resource sourced and managed for them is to lend credence to the belief that this is a role that at best coordinated by the national government.

Daily nation, June 6 2018

Nora: (busy opening some of the parcels). Yes, it is!

Helmer: Is it my little squirrel bustling about?

Nora: Yes!

Helmer: When did my squirrel come home?

Nora: Just now.

(Puts the bag of macaroons into her pocket and wipes her mouth.)

Come in here, Torvald, and see what I have bought.

HELMER: Don't disturb me.

(A little later, he opens the door and looks into the room, pen in hand.)

Bought, did you say? All these things? Has my little spendthrift been wasting money again?

Nora: Yes but, Torvald, this year we really can let ourselves go a little. This is the first Christmas that we have not needed to economise.

Helmer: Still, you know, we can't spend money recklessly. Nora. Yes, Torvald, we may be a wee bit more reckless now, mayn't we? Just a tiny wee bit! You are going to have a big salary and earn lots and lots of money.

Helmer: Yes, after the New Year; but then it will be a whole quarter before the salary is due.

Nora: Pooh! We can borrow until then.

Helmer: Nora! (Goes up to her and takes her playfully by the ear.) The same little featherhead!

Suppose, now, that I borrowed fifty pounds today, and you spent it all in the Christmas week, and then on New Year's Eve a slate fell on my head and killed me, and—

Nora: (putting her hands over his mouth). Oh! don't say such horrid things.

Helmer: Still, suppose that happened,—what then?

Nora: If that were to happen, I don't suppose I should care whether I owed money or not.

Helmer: Yes, but what about the people who had lent it?

3. Read the narrative below and then answer questions that follow.

There was a great famine in the land where Obunde and his wife, Oswera, lived with their nine children. The only creatures who had some food were the ogres and before they would part with their food, they demanded a lot of things.

One day, Oswera went to one Ogre's home and asked him for some food, for by then her children were almost dying of hunger.

'I have no more food except sweet potatoes, the ogre told her.

'I shall be happy to have the potatoes. We have nothing, not a grain of food at my house and the children are starving. Please let me have some and I shall repay you after the harvest.

'No, if you want food you must exchange with something right now. Will you give me one of your children in exchange for my potatoes? Oswera hesitated, her children were dear to her, but then they would die without food.

'Yes, I shall let you have one of them for his meal, if only you could let us have some potatoes,' Oswera answered. Then she took a big basket full of potatoes and told the ogre the exact time he could go to her home to collect one of her children for a meal.

Oswera thought hard and she decided she would not give a single one of her children to the ogre for a meal. She therefore cut young banana stalks and cooked them nicely.

When the ogre came, she gave them to him and the beast greedily went away satisfied. Soon the potatoes were finished and she had to go to the ogre again.

Oswera and Obunde, her husband kept on cooking banana stalks for the ogre each time he came for one of their children, until one day, she had no more banana stalks to cook for the animal.

"You have now eaten all my children, yet we still need the potatoes. What shall we give your now?" Oswera asked in despair.

'Then I shall come for you and your husband,' the ogre replied angrily as he helped Oswera to load her basket of potatoes on her head.

'Yes come tomorrow at the usual time in the afternoon and get me. I shall have cooked myself for you,' Oswera said calmly.

The following day the ogre went promptly as Oswera had told him and he found the home almost deserted. He looked everywhere but a part from Obunde there was no trace of anybody.

Then he looked at the usual place and found a huge bowl of a big meal Oswera had cooked for him. The ogre did not realize they had prepared a dog instead of Oswera. When he had eaten the ogre told Obunde he would come for him the following day. Obunde got very worried and that night he could not sleep. The following day he started crying:

"Ah Oswera my wife, how did you cook yourself and how shall I cook myself for the ogre?" He sat down in the dust of his compound and wept. Oswera became very annoyed with her husband.

You, you stupid, foolish man! Why sit and cry there all day long? How do you think I cooked myself? Take one of the dogs and quickly prepare it for the ogre!

Very quickly Obunde got up, caught, killed and prepared a dog for the ogre. Then he joined his wife and children in a huge hollow part of a tree in his compound where they had hidden.

That day the ogre knew he was going to have his last meal of juicy human flesh. Being a generous and unselfish ogre, he brought many of his fellow ogres. They were going to have a feast.

Suddenly as they were eating, they heard a man singing very happily. No they could not believe it! It was Obunde singing! And he was boasting of how he had cheated the ogre.

The greedy ogre ate banana stalks
Not my family;
The greedy ogre ate a dog
Not Obunde Magoro!
The greedy ogre ate banana stalks
Not my family;
Now come and get Obunde,
His children and wife.

Obunde sang the words and the ogres got very angry. The first ogre rushed into the hollow of the tree, but Oswera had heated a long piece of iron until it was white. She pushed the iron into the ogre's mouth. The beast fell down dead. The next one rushed into the hollow and Oswera killed him in the same way. In this way she killed all the ogres and saved her husband and all their children.

My story ends there.

3. ORAL SKILLS

a) Read the following oral narrative and answer the questions that follow

Long ago, there was a great famine in the world and during this time Dog went into the forest in a desperate bid to find some food. He left his wife at home guarding their hungry children. Shortly after setting out, Opul the hyena called at dog's house, with that sensitive nose of his, Opul had caught the scent of Dog's wife and now boldly entered her home demanding that she gives him one of the babies to eat. Afraid to refuse, Dog's wife obeyed and Opul swallowed the baby greedily. He immediately demanded all the others, filling Dog's wife with terror. "I'm not satisfied," he said. "Give me all of them then I will spare you." Helpless, Dog's wife complied, reluctantly handing over her babies until Opul had devoured them all. "Your babies were young and tasty," Opul said, "but I still feel hungry." And with that he attacked Dog's wife viciously and a fierce struggle began.

They had been fighting for a long time when the Dog himself suddenly returned, just in time to find Opul on the point of killing his wife. He flung into fray; but Opul, who was immensely strong, fought on with increasing fury until both dogs were exhausted and foaming at the mouth. Seeing how matters stood, Dog gasped to his wife, "Let's run for help! Let's go to a man's home! It isn't far from here! We're sure to get shelter there!"

And so they fled like the wind, escaping certain death in the mighty jaws of Opul; death that would have meant the extinction of all dogs on earth. Panting helplessly, they arrived at man's house where they were well received and given protection. Dog told his host how Opul had eaten all his children, and how he had gone to his wife's assistance before finally deciding to fight. Man listened sympathetically, and henceforth, Dog lived with him, never forgetting the help and protection he had once received.

SACHO HIGH SCHOOL
KCSE TRIAL AND PRACTICE EXAM
July 2019
English - Paper 2

1. Read the passage below and then answer the questions that follow. (20 marks)

The recent claim by scientists at Egerton University that the water table in the South Rift is dropping is alarming. The researchers have noted with great concern that several boreholes in the region have dried up and water volume in several rivers has rapidly reduced as a result of clearing of trees in the Mau forest. This significantly affects Lake Nakuru as its shoreline has noticeably been receding over time. We are being told this at a time when the Ministry of Natural Resources has already laid down plans to clear gazetted forests saying it to settle landless people. We cannot allow this to happen. In the past, we have watched influential people plunder Karura, Aberdares and Mt. Kenya forests. Marmanet forest in Laikipia is no more after several farmers were allocated the public land. We cannot afford to interfere with the water catchment areas of the great rivers of this country because they are our lifeline. Not so long ago, this country suffered crippling power rationing regime for more than six months, seriously hampering economic growth. Industries ground to a halt, laying off a number of employees; complicating an already worse unemployment crisis. This should have woken us up from the deep slumber that "all is well."

Ours is a tale of unfettered impunity. Throughout the country, we read of owners of large flower farmers who have diverted the river course into their farms to irrigate their crops, denying those living downstream a source of water. Others are busy clearing wetlands, seriously interfering with nature's ecological balance. We hear of industries shamelessly emptying their waste into rivers. Apart from that, influential transporters ferry truckloads of charcoal and the precious sandalwood under the noses of the police. More often than not, apart from empty rhetoric, we never get to hear that those responsible have been punished.

When the government kicked off the drive to reclaim the Mau forest, there was a flurry of activities from all and sundry. All came together in a massive tree planting exercise. However, the politicization of the compensation claims put forward by large estate owners with the Mau Complex, brought things to a halt. The enthusiasm has since died and no one knows when the matter will be brought to a conclusion.

We depend too much on our rivers to allow any selfish individual to interfere with their watershed. Needless to say, our complacent attitude towards environmental issues has made environmental problems uncontrollable. It is the high time we came together and took care of our environment.

The government through National Environment Management Authority (NEMA) , NGO's and environmental lobby groups should step up efforts to sensitise people of all walks of life on the need to conserve our natural heritage for the future generations. This should be coupled with replanting of trees on all deforested government land and intensified practice in agro-forestry. The ban on cultivation along river banks and indiscriminate felling of trees for charcoal burning must be enforced.

Apart from that, steps should be put in place towards revocation of all irregular allocation of government forests to individuals. Government officers suspected of abetting land grabbing must face the full force of the law. Industries that dispose off toxic or untreated waste into the environment should also be dealt with firmly.

It's time we took a step towards safeguarding our environment. There is need to develop a sense of collective responsibility. Considering the fact that the United States rejected the Kyoto Protocol of 1997, we should be even more vigilant and jealously safeguard what nature has provided. It's our environment, our country, our heritage. We need it to pass it on to our descendants.

2. Read the extract below and then answer the questions that follow: 25 marks

Mrs. Linde: Yes, that was what I was thinking of.

Nora: He must, Christine. Just leave it to me; I will broach the subject very cleverly- I will think of something that will please him very much. It will make me so happy to be of some use to you.

Mrs. Linde: How kind you are, Nora, to be so anxious to help me! It is doubly kind of you, for you know so little of the burdens and troubles of life.

Nora: I -? I know so little of them?

Mrs. Linde: (Smiling) My dear! Small household cares and that sort of thing!- You are a child, Nora.

Nora: (tosses her head and crosses the stage) You ought not to be so superior,

Mrs. Linde: No?

Nora: You are just like the others. They all think that I am incapable of anything really serious-

Mrs. Linde: Come, come -

Nora: - that I have gone through nothing in this world of cares.

Mrs. Linde: But, my dear Nora, you have just told me all your troubles.

Nora: Pooh! - those were trifles. (Lowering her voice) I have not told you the important thing.

Mrs. Linde: The important thing? What do you mean?

Nora: You look down upon me altogether, Christine - but you ought not to. You are proud, aren't you, of having worked so hard and so long for your mother?

Mrs. Linde: Indeed, I don't look down on anyone. But it is true that I am both proud and glad to think that I was privileged to make the end of my mother's life almost free from care.

Nora: And you are proud to think of what you have done for your brothers?

Mrs. Linde: I think I have the right to be.

Nora: I think so, too. But now, listen to this: I too have something to be proud and glad of.

Mrs. Linde: I have no doubt you have. But what do you refer to?

Nora: Speak low. Suppose Torvald were to hear! He mustn't on any account - no one in the world must know, Christine, except you.

Mrs. Linde: But what is it?

Nora: Come here. (Pulls her down on the sofa beside her.) Now I will show you that I too have something to be proud and glad of.

- a) What does Mrs. Linde refer to when she says "that was what I was thinking of"?

3. POETRY

I AM TIRED OF TALKING IN METAPHORS

I will talk plainly
Because I am moved to abandon riddles
I will tell you of how
We held our heads in our hands
Because the owl hooted all night
And the dogs howled as if mourning
We awaited the bad news
We received it:
Our mother blinded in one eye
Crippled in the right leg
Because she did not vote
For her husband's candidate

I will remind you
Of when the peeled plantains
Stood upright in the cooking pot:
We slaughtered a cock,
Anticipating an important visitor
We got her:
Our daughter – pieces of flesh in a sack
Our present from her husband.

No! I will not use metaphors
I will just talk to you:
I do not fight to take your place
Or to constantly wave my fist in your face

I refuse to argue about

Your "manly pact"
With my father
You're buying me for a bag of potatoes
And pepper
All I want
Is for you to stop denying me
My presence needs no metaphors

I am here
Just as you are
I am not a machine
To dismantle whenever you whim
I demand my human dignity

KCSE TRIAL AND PRACTICE EXAM

July 2019

English - Paper 2

1. COMPREHENSION(20 MARKS)Read the passage below and answer the questions that follow.

A short guy is a disadvantage individual. And no, the disadvantage is not about reaching high surfaces. He can always stand on his toes or even get a stool. But what would he do when he is discriminated against or taunted on account of his being short; and when tall guys consider it something of a moral responsibility to remind the short fellow over and over that he is inferior?

Apparently, a short man, besides being irritable, is a psychological wreck, thanks to some syndrome of sorts.

Then there is a legion of misinformed women out there who declare to anyone who cares to listen that death would be welcome alternative to dating a short man. Never mind that most are themselves as short as one can get. In their opinion, which they are entitled to anyway, tall is handsome, strong and literally oozes masculinity while short is the opposite. With limited choice of possible mates, restrictions on probable mates, and slew of wrongful generalization, affirmative action would be in order here.

But as they taunt, vilify and harass short guys on the basis of height, the tall ones conveniently forget that no one chose how tall they would be. Elementary Biology has it that we are all victims of genetic accident; how tall one becomes is wholly subject to chance. Appearance and other human characteristics are an aggregation of parental traits at best, or a mutation at worst like when only one member is short in a family of tall fellows. It therefore speaks volumes about the gray matter upstairs in anyone chest thumping about being tall. Once, when the disciplined forces were hiring, I offered myself for consideration. I was subjected to all sorts of strenuous exercise ,running round and round the field in the midday sun like i had gone berserk, shutting my eyes alternately , and a host of other impossible strange routine , only to be turned away at the end of the day for the simple reason that height did not add up

Merchants of rumors and falsehood have been at it again. After unleashing the - shorter the monkey the longer the tail rumour, they are back with another mind - boggling one: that these long- tailed short monkeys are poor lovers. While endowment does not necessarily equal performance, such are generalization of the absurd; something a kin to the misplaced belief that all Africans live on trees. If anything, as one Literary Great apply put it, a tiger does not declare its turpitude, it pounces.

And the politics of generalization do not end there .The short guy is also said to be irritable lad hence the worst possible choice for a boss or even mate. Who wants to spend time with someone who will be over the roof at the slightest provocation? Not that the myth is gospel truth, but has resulted in further restrictions of the short guy's already limited choice of a mate.

As if this is not enough, stiff competition for short ladies silently rages pitting tall guys against short ones. Despite their wide appeal, the tall fellows have an inexplicable penchant for short ladies. Factor in the belief that is something of a misnomer to date a taller lady, the decision by some short ladies to give a not interested verdict for short men, and you have remote ,dwindling chances of short men getting a mate.

Maybe it is time short in stature considered coming together to fight this wholesale discrimination on account of height, over which they have no control. An association would be the perfect gateway to affirmative action. Surely, what has height got to do with love, temperament and everything else for that matter?

"Check your tongue child!" her mother rebuked her harshly.

"Soon you are going to disgrace your father by the way you speak. Didn't you see the way you horrified your yeiyo-botorr the other day when you spoke like one with a demented spirit? You must bridle your tongue. Be careful of what you say, otherwise you will soon be called enaduakutuk."

"I am sorry, Yeiyo," said Resian remorsefully. "But surely Yeiyo, mustn't one mention the despicable character of an old man who behaves badly before a girl young enough to be his daughter?"

"However disreputable the man may be," her mother warned her, "be careful Resian. We don't know what connection the man has with your father and it would be catastrophic if your tongue would be the one to sever his relations with other men. Go to the living room and tell him I'm busy preparing lunch. Get him a cup of tea or something else to drink and make him comfortable before your father comes. I am sure he will be here soon."

English – Paper 2

1. Read the passage below and then answer the questions that follow.

In olden days, choosing a profession was not all a cause of worry. A farmer's son became a farmer, a potter's son a potter, a king's son a king and so on. But in the modern era, it is skill knowledge, not the caste or community of a person which decides what profession to chose.

The choice of a right profession is one of the most dreadful tasks a child has to face in his transition from childhood to adolescence. Throughout the early decades of independence, Indian kids had only a few choices like engineering, medicine, teaching, government service among others. But post liberalisation, a number of new industries have emerged, providing today's kids with countless career options. Some other new attractive careers are in the information technology food, hospitality, fashion and infrastructure industries.

My desire is to become a software engineer when I grow up. My interest in this field has been since my primary school age. I have always had a fascination for computers. I love playing computer games very much. It was this interest in computer games that sparked off my curiosity about how software codes are written, how graphics and animation are done . . . and such questions. At a very early age, I learnt flash and then started creating games in flash. My father saw this talent and introduced me to his friend's son, Mr. Jatin Patel who was an engineer with Microsoft corporation. Mr. Jatin has been a very valuable mentor since then, giving me proper guidance in charting my career path and developing the necessary skills to succeed in this field.

The basic skill required for a software engineer is to have a sense of logic and common sense, a mind that can think in many dimensions simultaneously and the knack of solving problems. I regularly solve puzzles and play chess to improve my analytical skills and problem (s) solving ability. I have also learnt the basics of operating systems like Windows, Linux and programming languages like C, C++, Java, among others. I have even begun to write programs in these languages. Another important skill needed to succeed in the software industry is good communication skills. I have enrolled for language and personality development courses to sharpen my communication ability and other soft skills.

I am well aware of the pros and cons of becoming an IT engineer. A software professional has to work under tremendous pressure, work late at night and has to meet almost impossible deadlines. He might get no time for family and friends. And as one moves up the ladder, the pressure would only increase.

On the brighter side, the job provides the best salary in the industry. Apart from regular salary hikes, one also gets ample opportunity to travel abroad and in the process make a lot of money. More than the money, there are a lot of learning opportunities. Also, there is a deep sense of satisfaction in helping to build systems that make people's lives easier.

My plan is to do my bachelors and masters in engineering from the best engineering college in the country and then bag a job in a reputed company like Microsoft or Google.

Questions

- a) What is the most dreadful task a child has to face? (1 mark)
- b) How does the writer illustrate change in career opportunities. (2 marks)

2. Read the excerpt below and then answer the questions that follow. (25 marks)

Krogstad: Are you sure of that?

Mrs. Linde: Quite sure, but -

Krogstad: (with a searching look at her) Is that what it all means? - that you want to save your friend at any cost? Tell me frankly. Is that it?

Mrs. Linde: Nils, a woman who has once sold herself for another's sake doesn't do it a second time.

Krogstad: I will ask for my letter back.

Mrs. Linde: No, no.

Krogstad: Yes, of course I will. I will wait here until Helmer comes; I will tell him he must give me my letter back-that it only concerns my dismissal-that he is not to read it -

Mrs. Linde: No Nils, you must not recall your letter.

Krogstad: But, tell me wasn't it for that very purpose that you asked me to meet you here?

Mrs. Linde: In my first moment of fright, it was. But twenty-four hours have elapsed since then, and in that time I have witnessed incredible things in this house. Helmer must know all about it. This unhappy secret must be disclosed; they must have a complete understanding between them which is impossible with all this concealment and falsehood going on.

Krogstad: Very well, if you take the responsibility. But there is one thing I can do in any case and I shall do it at once.

Mrs. Linde: (listening) You must be quick and go! The dance is over; we are not safe a moment longer.

Krogstad: I will wait for you below.

Mrs. Linde: Yes, do. You must see me back to my door -

Krogstad: I have never had such an amazing piece of good fortune in my life!

3. POETRY

Read the following poem and answer the questions that follow.

ONE

Only one of me
And nobody can get a second one
From a photocopy machine.

Nobody has the fingerprints I have
Nobody can cry my tears, or laugh my laugh
Or have my expectancy when I want.

But anybody can mimic my dance with my day.
Anybody can howl how I sing out of tunes.
And mirrors can show me multiplied.
many times, say, dressed up in red or dressed up in grey.

Nobody can get into my clothes for one.
or feel my fall for me, or do my running.
Nobody hears my music for me, either.

I am just this one.
Nobody else makes the words.
I shape with sound when I talk.
But anybody can act how I stutter in a rage.

Anybody can copy echoes I make.
And mirrors can show me multiplied.
many times say, dressed up in green or dressed up in blue.

a) Read the story below and answer the questions that follow.

Thunder and Lightning (Nigeria)

A long time ago, both Thunder and Lightning lived on this earth, among the people. Thunder was a mother sheep and Lightning was her son, a ram. Neither animal was very popular with the people, for when somebody offended Lightning, he would fly into a furious rage and begin burning whatever he came across. This often included huts and corn bins, and even large trees. Sometimes he damaged crops on the farms with his fire and occasionally he killed people who got in his way. As soon as Thunder knew he was behaving this way, she would raise her voice and shout at him as she could, and that was very loud in deed. Naturally, the neighbours were very upset, first at the damage caused by Lightning and then by the unbearable noise from his mother that always followed his outbursts. The villagers complained to the King on many occasions, until at last he sent the two of them to live at the very edge of the village, and said that they must not come and mix with the people any more.

However, this did no good, since Lightning could still see people as they walked about the village streets and so found it only too easy to continue picking quarrels with them. At last the King sent for them again. "I have given you many chances to live a better life," he said, but I can see that it is useless. From now on, you must go away from our village and live in the wild bush. We do not want to see your faces here again."

Thunder and Lightning had to obey the King and agree to abide by his ruling; so they left the village, angry at its inhabitants. But still there was plenty of trouble in store for the villagers, since Lightning was so angry at being banished that he now set fire to the whole bush and since it was the dry season, this was extremely unfortunate. The flames spread to the little farms of the people and sometimes to their houses as well, so that they were in despair again.

They often heard the mother ram's mighty voice calling her son to order but since it was always after the dark, it made very little difference in his actions. The king called all his counselors together and asked them to advise him, and after much debate, they hit a plan. Why not banish Thunder and Lightning completely away from the earth, where the people hoped they would not be able to do any more damage. Things did not work out quite as well as they had hoped, however for Lightning still loses his temper from time to time and cannot resist sending fire down to the earth when he is angry. Then you can hear his mother rebuking him in her loud trembling voice.

English – Paper 2

COMPREHENSION

Read the passage below and then answer the questions that follow. Gender is probably the most important social issue in the world today. It affects and influences every aspect of our lives: politics, economics, religion and leisure. People in the 21st Century strongly believed that every project must get the gender dimension right in order to succeed. But what is gender? Basically, gender is the expectation that people should do or not do certain things according to their sex. Every normal human being is either female or male. This is sex and it is a biological fact. Indeed, sex is the most conspicuous difference between human beings.

The moment we look at a person, we can tell whether that person is a man or a woman, a boy or a girl. The question is if society should use this biological difference to tell people what they should or should not do. Yet, since time immemorial, this is what human communities all over the world have done. Some African societies bring up their boys to believe that men must be fighters, take whatever they want – by force if necessary and never cry. If anyone asks why they should or should not do this and that, the ready answer is always: you are a man, and that's what men are supposed to do. Girls are told to be gentle and quiet, to obey men, not to climb trees and not to eat certain kinds of food. A girl who asks why she should not climb trees or speak loudly in public is told, you are a woman, and women don't do that. In other words, society is always telling us what we can do and what we cannot do just because we are men or women. In most cases, there is no physical or logical reason for a man or a woman to do or not do certain things. Any girl can climb a tree as smartly as any boy. If a boy wants to go into the kitchen and cook, there is no reason why he should not do so. Indeed, some of the best cooks in the world, called 'chefs' are men. Yet in some societies, it is a taboo for a man or boy to enter the kitchen. Similarly, some societies do not allow their women to build houses, even work at building sites, whereas in other societies it is indeed the woman's role to build houses. Gender is thus society's assigning of roles to people according to their being male or female. On the face of it, there is nothing wrong with sharing roles – indeed, there are many cases where it is logical to expect that certain people should do or avoid some activities. For example, it would not be safe for a woman in advance stages of pregnancy to go hunting wild animals or grazing livestock many miles away from home. However, this should not be taken as a blanket excuse to declare that all women must not hunt wild animals. The problem is even worse when some people use gender roles to exploit or oppress other people. Men for example, have for a long time invoked gender roles to force women to do certain things and to prevent them from doing things the women may want to do. This oppressive practice may be called gender imposition, and it may be seen in all aspects of society. In social relations, boys and girls are segregated from the earliest years of life. Members of each sex are strictly drilled into what 'feminine' or 'masculine' in behaviour, speech, dress and every activity. Boys and girls are told what work they should or should not do, what places they can or cannot go to. What games to play and even what foods to eat or not to eat; just because they are boys or girls. By the time a person is in his or her teens, he or she has learnt – from both example and direct teaching by older members of society – what exactly is expected of him or her as a man or a woman. These gendered roles often suggest that men should lead and command in everything, be 'tough' – meaning hard and even cruel – and 'strong', which often means aggressive and violent. The women on the other hand, are required to be soft and kind, submissive and unquestioningly obedient to men. Even in public affairs, such as politics or religion, the gendering of roles leads to some curious situations. In some places of worship for example, men and women are strictly separated. Several denominations do not permit women to preach in public or to be ordained as priests or pastors. Politics is widely regarded as a man's field.

Some societies insist that a woman cannot be a leader, like President or Army commander. The nagging question, which many women and enlightened men are asking today is: Why not? This is the challenge to the conventional gendering of roles. Is there any logical reason why a man should not change the nappies of his child, or go into the kitchen and cook? Why can a talented woman not become a top soccer or rugby player, or a bishop or a top business executive? Is it fair to prevent people from eating such nutritious foods as chicken and eggs simply because they are women? Should children be denied the right to inherit their parents' property on the grounds of sex? Is it not pathetic seeing men inflict beastly violence on their wives and children, or one another simply because men are expected to be 'tough' and 'strong'?

To avoid such absurdities, advocates of gender equity demand that sex should not be the main consideration in dealing with people. Assigning roles to people on the grounds of biological differences is a form of evil discrimination, like racism. A more sensible way of dealing with men and women is to take them strictly on the basis of their individual abilities. A human being is a human being, whether man or woman and each should be given every opportunity to realize his or her full human potential. An enlightened approach to gender equity is suggested by the old English saying "What's good for the goose is good for the gander".

3. Read the poem below and answer the questions that follow.

I refused to take your brotherly hand

Your nails are black with dirt, brother
And your palms are clammy with sweat
I refuse to take the hand you extend in help
I shall not join hands with you brother
For unclean hands make me uneasy
For filthy fingernails rob me of my pride.

You argue, gesticulating with your once
Impeccably clean and beautiful hands
That before long it shall not matter
For 'everybody' is delving and digging
And all shall have hands dripping with dirt.

That nobody shall know clean hands look like
And there shall be comfort in the dirty crowd
And enough to eat, for there are good yields
When the stinking manure is well dug in
With strong and bold hands in time

Are you going blind brother?
I ask how many have the sludge
Or the strong and bold hands like yours
With which to dig and delve?
Brother the hands of many are too weak with hunger
And for many the sludge is out of reach
And yet for others the stink is too nauseating!
But all have eyes and hunger fills them with anger
As they watch your fingernails fill with dirt!

Q2. Blossoms of the Savanna

Introduction

Today's position on the male and female gender is that men and women are equal and none of the gender should dominate over the other. In Blossoms of the Savannah, women are culturally forced to be subservient to men, a practice that denies them some fundamental rights as human beings.

A wife has the right to state his position on any matter even if it is contrary to the husband's position. This is not the case with Mama Milanoi, wife to Ole Kaelo. She admits that she did not know which man her husband was doing business with and even if she did, she would not do anything about it for he was the one who carried the family's vision. She thus leaves every aspect of decision making to him whether those decisions are good or bad.

A woman is a being to be loved and not to love back. Although Ole Kaelo genuinely loved Mama Milanoi when he saw her first, her feelings on him are immaterial. Women were not expected to resist a man's advances according to Nasilian culture. This is a great violation of her right to love or hate. In her case there is no room for that. It is also expected that Resian should give into Oloisudori's plans to marry her. Refusal is regarded as stubbornness. In fact, Oloisudori claims that none of his wives put any resistance in his interest in them. This means that their feelings for him did not matter a great violation of their freedom to choose their marriage partner.

Resian and Taiyo are forced to undergo cultural coaching by Joseph Pamuat. Rusian rebels this citing inequality in the plan. She opines that if they were boys, such a thing would not be done on them. Instead, they would be freely roaming Nasila with nobody bothering them. In their case, there is no such option simply because they are girls. Their right to choose what to and not to learn is violated. Girls are taught how to cook for their men but there are no lessons for boys on how to please women. Resian opposes such arrangements saying she would not be taught to solely please men. She claims that even boys should be taught how to please women.

Gender inequality in this society elevates man over the woman to the extent that Resian says that it made men assume that they had right over the body of any woman. This has reduced women to be objects of sex to be exploited by men at will. This practice started with the Ilarinkon warriors who sexually exploited women after arousing their desires. Taiyo and Resian undergo several rape attempts with Resian ending up being raped by Olarinkoi who assumes he has every right over her body. These inequalities have greatly undermined women's right to privacy and to choose whom to have sexual relation with.

Gender inequality does not just stop at that. Instead, it is a major cause of violation of basic human rights that all should be accorded a chance to enjoy. Women in the novel have most of their rights curtailed as a result of gender imbalance between men and women.

Q3. OPTIONAL TEXT

a) The Short Story (Memories we lost)

INTRODUCTION

Though ambition is good and motivates us to keep working, not being contented with what one has can lead to self destruction in the story, how much land does man need is a good example of this.

NB show general understanding of the question and then tie to the text.

i) Poham, a farmer owns 123 acres of land and pasture. He also had a big house in which five family members lived in as he kept farming the number of the cattle kept increasing. However he was not contented with this, he thought that his land was not big enough. He wanted wider and more fertile lands. He had a desire to farm widely and to keep more livestock. This made him leave his vast lands in search of more. He dies in his quest and loses what he owned.

ii) Pohom kept thinking about only one thing. How can I have more lands? He loses an opportunity to enjoy what he had remained restless. "I have to go there and buy land"

iii) Pohom kept walking under the hot sun in order to get the largest and best land above all people. He has to take off his coat and the shoes because of the heat.

His desire to get more land above every one made him lose even the comfort he would have enjoyed. He was in a regular sweat and very thirsty.

iv) Even after he had walked enough and knew he was supposed to go back a desire to get the hallow made him not to turn. He kept going in order to get more land. He was never satisfied. He kept walking without thinking until it was too late. The only thing that made him stop and turn the hours he would have used to turn back because of his greed for more.

Even after he realized his body was drained of all energy he begun to run for fear of losing all. His month was perched his breast was working like a blacksmith's bellows, his heart beating like a hammer. Though afraid a death, he could not stop. He ran on and on. At this point he should have stopped but the thought of gaining more land made him push himself to the end losing the land his life.

Conclusion

From the above illustration, it is true to say that our desire to get more and more can make us lose even what we have.

Q 3. (b) John Steinbeck, The Pearl.

Introduction (2mks)

Force beyond one's shape our destiny. What a number of characters go through in the Pearl is pre-determined.

Accept any other relevant introduction.

Body (12mks)

- The death of baby Coyotito is pre-determined. However much the family tries to protect and save him, he finally passes on when they are attacked by the attackers.

- Kino returns the Pearl to the sea. This is after he unsuccessfully tries to sell it. The pearl buyers collude to deny him the opportunity to sell it by setting very low price for it.

- Failure by Kino to get to the Pearl Buyer or the best price is beyond his control. This is what makes him to finally realize that it is the pearl that is turning him into an animal and a target of thieves that he throws it back to the sea.

- The stinging of the baby. The scorpion stings the baby irrespective of Kino's attempt to kill it. This is foreshadowed by the music of Evil in Kino mind and the music of the enemy Pg 21.

3 (c) An essay should have at least six paragraphs. One paragraph should be the introduction. We should then have four paragraphs of the body, each discussing an independent point. The body paragraphs should start with a topic sentence which is the carrier of the answer.

Introduction.

David Mulwa's play, "Inheritance", is a satirical play which is mocking the bad characteristics of Leader Lacuna Kasoo, which are key contributors to his downfall.

He is like the mythical Greek kings who got drunk with power, to extent that they mock God, and longer care about the feelings of their fellow human beings.

Firstly, Lacuna Kasoo is seen to be Materialistic. He has a desire to get all the wealth in the world, even if it is at the expense of his people. He borrows from foreign countries, and funnily enough, he misappropriates the money and even goes to store it in Foreign accounts, opened in the same banks he had borrowed from, in the name of Kutula.

Secondly, he is also seen to be lustful. This is the major trait that contributes to his downfall. He develops an insatiable desire to marry Lulu and have sex with her, because according to him, this will give him a new lease of life, and also helps him connect with the Dead and the unborn. This is evident in the fact that he pulls his key advisors on governance matters into the petty issue of planning his night escapade with Lulu. This makes him blind to the state of the nation. He also falls out with Robert, one of the financiers because he talked to Lulu. He finally is thrown out of power because the foreign power does not support him anymore.

Thirdly his pride is another major contributor to his downfall. He is first of all very determined to create a gap between himself and the citizens. This he does by impoverishing them and making himself super rich. He says that he cannot move around in an insect of a car whereas other world leaders are rolling across the sky. He buys himself a plane, and even at some point compares himself to God. This later leads to his downfall, because all people turn against him. Also, he is temperamental. This makes him to make rash decisions which make him fall into trouble. He jails the foreign financiers after Robert freezes his accounts to recover part of the loan he had taken.

This is despite the advice by Chipande against the same. He also orders for the evacuation of the people from Bukelenge valley so that the foreigners can occupy it and do farming. Another poor decision which he makes in a rush is to introduce martial law, and enclose all his people in their houses in a 24hour curfew. This only serves to fuel the rebellion of his subjects.

In addition to that, he is a cruel leader. It is evident in the fact that he kills his own father by poisoning him. He also jails Romanus Bengo for giving him stiff political competition and even winning against him. For that, he wants to kill him. He tries to use his brother, Be go to execute the killing and when he refuses, he is sacked and later beaten ruthlessly and dumped at his door. He is finally killed in an 'accident' in Lacuna Kasoo mines. This infuriates the citizens, particularly Romanus Bengo, who leads the rest in overthrowing him. This we can say was Lacuna's own making.

In conclusion, we can say that the traits mentioned above, among others, are contributors to Lacuna Kasoo's downfall.

COMPREHENSIVE PASSAGE

1. Automation cuts down on the number of workers needed for various tasks. It also ensures efficiency. As in the case of computers, automation also helps us to perform tasks faster
2. The main achievements of modern computing is the great speed with which tasks can be performed compared to the time taken with human efforts
3. Industrialization has led to:
 - (i) Underutilized labour force
 - (ii) Reduction of labour (employment opportunities)
 - (iii) Creation of surplus human energy
 - (iv) Too much leisure
4. We are already seeing the straws in the wind ...means there are signs or there is evidence that industrialization has led to the creation of too much leisure time, people are left idle and signs of their lack of occupation can be seen
5. Automation is inevitable. It is definitely advantageous to have mechanisms that can perform different tasks in the shortest time possible. Automation has also ensured greater efficiency. However, automation has led to loss of jobs for people who were initially doing tasks the machines now do. The work that is to be performed by people is now boring and meaningless
The free time created has become a burden to many and the idleness can be seen in the many outbursts by youth who are not constructively engaged
 - (i) Great/massive
 - (ii) Recovery of information stored in a computer
 - (iii) Relentless /uncontrollableWearisome/monotonous
7. If the industry of the future is purged of its monotony and meaningless, the man would be better equipped to use leisure time constructively
8. The entire cycle of operations does away with human control except in so far as monitors are concerned

F.G.M was valued by Maa people. No girl would get married before going through the rite.

It was a tool to fight against sexual harassment by Olarinkoi warriors

Resian and Laiyo fail to see its purpose and try to run away from it

Minik has a ranch where over five hundred girls have been rescued from circumcision

- Resian manages to escape from circumcision through Nabaru who sneaks her away

Though Mama Milanoi has undergone the rite, she is apprehensive against her daughters

Undergoing it

Heinous acts in the society

- Ole kulet castigates heinous acts in the society. When Taiyo and Resian are almost raped by two vagabonds, Tara Muyo and Lante, the society is mad at them and they are almost killed

- Ole Kaelo almost kills them, but later is relieved that he has not caused the death of the man for this could have brought a curse which could not be cleansed
- When Olarinkoi attempts to rape Resian, she almost bites off his finger, He is banished from the village for some time and he misses the opportunity of making her his wife. Kulet portrays that this behavior is unacceptable in the society.

Old men marrying young daughters

- Ole Kulet castigates this vice of old men marrying girls young enough to be their daughters
- Mama Mitanoi in her anguish about Oloisudori's wish to marry Resian remembers that in the past, such a thing would not have happened. She could have appealed to the elders' court which would have ruled in her favour.
- Oloisudori's effort to marry either Resian or Taiyo does not succeed. He ends up losing his vehicle and fleeing for his life
- Kulet Castigates forced early marriages. Emakererei has rescued over five hundred girls whose dowry their father had taken. She has kept them in her ranch and taken them back to school.

Prejudice against Women

- Women in the book have no place in decision making. Mama Milanoi has to accept everything that her husband does
- Taiyo and Resian are also not given their space. Their father refuses to give Taiyo permission for the extravaganza. He is also not bothered about their education
- Resian and Emakererei break the tyrannical regime by making their own decision. Emakererei campaigns against F.G.M and early marriages. Resian defies the dominance of her father by refusing to marry Oloisudori
- Kulet develops these characters to water down male dominance in the society

THE PEARL

Introduction

1. General or context based

Introduction:	It is the nature of human beings to wrongly desire what isn't	theirs. Such is the case in The Pearl as seen through characters	such as The Doctor, The Priest, Pearl buyers etc.

Content

The Doctor: Wants to take advantage of Coyotito's sickness to get the Pearl.

Upon learning that Kino has found a pearl he visits Kino and yet he had turned him away earlier. He tries to trick Kino into giving him the Pearl. He also observes Kino's eyes with an intention of knowing where the Pearl could be buried.

The Priest: Wants to take advantage of Kino's and Juana's marriage. He pays Kino a visit with intentions of getting some of the proceeds of the Pearl. He is keen to remind Kino to give thanks in church, he also wishes to med him and baptize his son. This is because they can now pay for this.

Pearl buyers: They conspire on how to deal with Kino who has found "the pearl of the world". They lie to him about the actual cost of the Pearl. They offer very little when in actual sense it is a very expensive pearl.

The trackers: They track Kino and follow him all the way with intentions of forcefully taking the pearl from him. From Juana we learn that they will not spare Kino, his wife and son in their efforts of getting the Pearl.

Attackers: They attack Kino on several occasions and injure him. They burn down Kino's house and destroy his boat-his source of livelihood.

Conclusion

Give opinion or recap the points that have been highlighted.

Henrik Ibsen's A Doll's house is a very interesting drama. It is set in Torvald and Nara Helmer's living room on the eve of christmas. The pray is a three – act piece that can be read in a single sitting. It is a social critique that highlights issues of emancipation of women form men's contrast.

The drama has a straight forward plot that enhances reader's understanding of the text. It begins with Torvald calling Nora several pet names which Nora seems to enjoy. However, the author reveals to the reader a great secret whose revelation would sever their union and liberate Nora from the domination of her husband. Nora had procured a loan without her husband's consent and by forging her father's signature all in bid to facilitate her husband trip to Italy for treatment. She has been faithfully repaying the loan until the loan owner who had known Nora's indiscretion threatens to reveal Nora's crime to her husband, Helmer. Nora seeks assistance from her school days friend, Christine Linde and though the two fight to get out of the situation; the secret is finally out. Toward Helmer's failure to defend his wife in the face of the scandalous revelation prompts Nora to walk out on him. The author develops their plot by sustained irony, suspense and surprises which quickly moves the plot to a climax.

I find the portrayal Nora apt. She symbolizes the status of most women in the modern patriarchal societies. Ibsen has accurately captured the modern female fight for empowerment. This has indeed made the drama relevant to the modern society.

H.R. Ole Kulet: Blossoms of the Savannah

"The strong bond between Resian and Taiyo contributes significantly to their triumph." Write an essay in support of this statement.

No man is an island. Human beings were created to relate mutually. The close friendship between Resian and Taiyo is the key to overcoming stormy times that present themselves in their lives as follows:

In their new environment at Nasila, the girls meet unique challenges. They are not used to the communal life for all along they have stayed in an urban set up where life is individualistic. At Nasila, they have to get used to impromptu visitors and superior male counterparts. It is the love between the two girls that helps in these scenarios. The duo stays together most of the times. By so doing, they share a lot. Taiyo counsels Resian on using kind language on Yeiyo Botorr, her aunt. The two girls discuss about danger that lurks from the hostile youth especially because of their uncircumcised condition.

In overcoming the challenge of female genital mutilation (FGM), their friendship bond comes in handy. When Resian goes on a hunger strike, she says it is only Taiyo who can change her stand. When Taiyo is informed of Resian's condition, she does not hesitate to offer herself for Resian's redemption even when there are risks all over. While at Nasila, they have a lot of time sharing their views towards FGM. The discussions must have strengthened their hard stands towards FGM. It is from these discussions that they vow never to give in to FGM.

In the incident when Taiyo and Resian are accosted by two callous young men, their coordination and friendship save them. The incident finds them while they are walking together where they had visited Maiso for lunch. If the struggle had been between two men versus one girl, probably she would have surmounted. Although most of the salvation is largely brought by Olarinkoi the fact that the two girls were together makes it easier for them to go about the ordeal. Their joint screaming and their escape unhurt is partly contributed by their togetherness.

The two birds of a feather hatch a scheme to outwit Oloisudori. They wrap the gifts he had brought them into a box and title it as a gift. They then plan how to execute the plan. They arrange on how Resian is to thank Oloisudori and give him the gift. They discuss the aim of the gestures to clarify to Oloisudori the fact they cannot be cheated with gifts. From this co-operation Resian manages to trick Oloisudori and tells off her father and later with Olarinkoi, they manage to leave Nasila.

It is clear from the above illustration that strong friendship bonds can help friends go about hard experiences and overcome them in their lives..

Either

(a) The Short Story

Chris Wanjala: Memories We lost and Other Stories

Discuss the devastating effects that conflicts have on the innocent children and women in Mariutu Kamara's 'The President'.

- ✓ Conflicts in society arise as a result of hatred and tribal animosity. This hatred and animosity among citizens leads to unrest and violence. Such violence and conflicts have far reaching consequences and effects on the civilians, mostly children, women and the innocent. As brought out in The President, many suffer a lot.
- ✓ Members of different families are separated from each other as a result of conflict. Many people fear what is brought about by conflict and thus end up running away, and in the process they separate from each other. For instance, Adamsay is dragged away by rebels. Furthermore, Ibrahim and Mohamed are captured and tied and taken away. Kamara is also separated from Marie and Alie because of conflict.

- ✓ There are a lot of atrocities which are meted on the people during conflict. Women and girls end up being defiled, a case of Kamara where she is raped by Salieu at a tender age. Many people lose their limbs, for instance rebels cut off people's hands as a way of sending a message to the president to get out of power. Many people are forced to live in an amputees' camp in Freetown.
- ✓ Many lives are lost. Conflict and violence leads to the killing of many people. The narrator says that she later learnt that as many as hundred people were killed that day. Rebels have no regard for human life; they just kill people.
- ✓ In line with war, children are also recruited into war as soldiers. Mostly this is done against their will and they end up missing out on their childhood. Kamara is tortured and eventually amputated by child soldiers who are her age mates. She pleads with one child soldier to have mercy on her as she is his age but the child soldier hears none of that. Victims of violence and conflicts are forced to live in a camp for amputees in Freetown. This camp is full of filthy litter and full of dirty bodies. More so they are forced to beg on the streets to get what to eat.
- ✓ Children who undergo such violence like what Kamara goes through have psychological torture. Kamara mentions that she is enrolled in high school before she is swallowed by thoughts of her past and family.
- ✓ It is very clear that conflicts, which are mostly fuelled by hatred, have detrimental effects on innocent children and women. They are the ones who suffer the greatest brunt of such. They suffer a lot, they are handicapped, displaced from their homes, are forced to live in pathetic conditions and some even lose their lives.

David Mulwa: Inheritance

Misuse of power is a common phenomenon in most African countries. Basing your arguments on Inheritance by David Mulwa write an essay to support this statement.

Power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely. When individuals get power, it gets into their heads. Leaders tend to forget that they have ascended to power courtesy of the citizens and use the same privileges to look down and oppress their subjects. Basically they have no regard for the people who elected them to that point.

- ✓ Judah Zen Melo is kicked out of his work because he refuses to be involved in the killing of his brother Bengo, more so they take his land.

- ✓ Chipande uses his influence as a councillor to buy Tamina's land on the mountains cheaply, for peanuts, and then he goes ahead to ensure that no one is given license to grow coffee for he fears competition.
- ✓ Most people employed in Kutula government are Leader Lacuna's tribesmen and kinsmen. Tamina comments that Lacuna hasn't seen anyone else apart from his tribesmen. The manager at the mines where Zen Melo works as a gateman is a tribesman of Lacuna.
- ✓ Lacuna sacks all employees and employs people from his tribe when he is confronted with protests and rebels against his leadership, in addition he declares martial law and a curfew so that he could track down the dissidents and rebels. He orders the killing of deserters.
- ✓ Lacuna detains Lulu against her will at the palace. He kisses her forcefully and wants to marry her against her will.
- ✓ Since he has power, Lacuna orders the removal of inhabitants of the valley such that the foreigners should occupy it. Goldstein wants to use his position to ensure that they benefit fully from the business arrangement with Kutula through the interests earned on the loans advanced to Kutula.
- ✓ Lacuna lines his pocket with money as well as giving to his close supporters. This in appropriation of state resources is an abuse of office.

The Pearl

- The doctor declines to treat Kino's child, Coyotito, of the scorpion sting because he has no money (has only small worthless pearls).
- The pearl buyers are out to take advantage of Kino and his pearl. Their goal is to cheat him and ruin his plans of happiness and peace for his family.
- The doctor comes to take advantage of Kino's ignorance by making Coyotito sick and pretending that his illness is the result of the scorpion sting. He pretends as if he does not know of Kino's pearl, yet the only reason he has comes to treat Coyotito was to try and seek out where Kino might be hiding it.
- Kino is attacked several times as the attackers want to rob him of the pearl of the world.
- The pearl turns Juana and Kino against one another. At the beginning of the story, they are very close but the pearl divides them. Kino attacks and injures his wife when she wants to throw it into the sea.
- Kino is forced to kill a man to defend himself and the pearl.
- His hut is burned after someone searching for the pearl has ransacked it.
- Trackers follow Kino and his family and they have to hide in the mountain. Finally, Kino's child is shot.

Blossoms of the Savannah, By H.R. Ole Kulet

Alienation is a theme that runs through the novel, Blossoms of the Savannah.

Discuss.

Introduction

To be alienated implies a state of separation of a person from a former position, state or object of attachment. There is an aura of enstrangement that runs through the novel in relation to the family of Kaelo and their cultural establishment.

Body

At the start of the novel, Parsimei Kaelo who has been in Nakuru for a number of years is alienated from his ancestral family and roots. His younger brother, Simiren who remains in Nasila, had been more appreciated and was considered the cultural head of the community by the Kaelo's. Simiren, Parsimei's younger brother happens to be the one who represents the family in the Ilmolelian clan to which they belong. He performs sacred rituals like initiation of girls, circumcision of boys or betrothal ceremonies on behalf of Parsimei. We are also told that Simiren, unlike Parsimei is a strict adherent to his people's customs and traditions.

The Kaelo daughters, Taiyo and Resian, are also alienated from their roots. Mama Milanoi's women friends refer to the girls as Intoiye Nemengalana (girls who are not circumcised) contemptuously. In their culture, it was expected that females be circumcised, something that has not happened to Taiyo and Resian. In fact it is a taboo to remain an uncut woman/girl. The young man that Taiyo and Resian meet at Nasila also refers to them as Intoiye Nemengalana (girls who are not circumcised). This societal expectation is so critical so much that Joseph Parmuat is given the responsibility of talking to Taiyo and Resian about their traditions. (Pg 71). However, the girls are so alienated that they don't see the gravity of being uncircumcised and that Resian thinks of is her enrolment to Egerton University.

Parsimei Kaelo is also alien. They are alienated to the clan dictates on marriage. Elders term Parsimei's decision to remain married to only one wife who had borne him two daughters as a reckless one. This is alien in a society where polygamy is practiced and boy children are cherished. For instance, Simiren has 4 wives and 16 children or so; Ole Supeyo has 6 wives and about 30 children. It is this alienation that makes Parsimei enlist the help of Simiren and several senior elders of the community to re-establish links and also blessings for his family. (pg 37). He decides to do this by throwing a party. It is in this party that Ole Musanka blesses the Ole Kaelos and advises them to re-assimilate themselves to their peoples' culture. (pg 52)

Minik ene Nkoitoi 'wasp' is alienated to her community. She is regarded as the devil incarnate. She is hated and reviled for campaigning vigorously against traditions that she says abuse the right of the girl child – namely – girls' circumcision and early marriages. (pg 62). This puts her in direct collision with the people of Nasila.

Finally, Mama Milanoi is also alienated from the cultural expectations of her community. She lets her daughters remain uncircumcised in a society where this is considered a taboo. She is also accused of being aloof and selective on the aspects of Nasila culture that they choose to interact with. (pg 145)

Inheritance by David Mulwa

Write an essay on the admirable character traits of King Kutula XV basing your arguments on the play, Inheritance by David Mulwa.

Introduction

The admirable character of King Kutula XV in the play enables the reader to enjoy the text, this helps to expound on the main issues in the play. His admirable character traits are exemplified.

He is protective. He fiercely protects his countrymen from colonial exploitation. He compares their relationship with the colonial masters to that of the proverbial elephant and the farmer who could neither share the same hut nor see eye to eye. He says he regrets the day their fore father agreed to cooperate with the colonial master. He says that all that he wants is stop the colonial exploitation of their land's minerals(gold, silver, oil) and wants them to equally share the returns from the minerals instead of the current take – all scenario.

He is humble. He deters the continued streaming of praises directed towards him from Mr. Thorne's attendant's (pg. 6)..." Naw, naw, naw! Don't carry on my son. His mortal excellency doesn't understand a word you say!" He also respectably addresses Thorne Macay as Governor, and Menninger as Voice of God. He does also request to sit down after he is in the office of Thorne.

He is wise. He appropriately uses proverbs in his speech. When urging Thorne to proceed in his speech he tells him, "It's a weak suitor who asks his new bride how to proceed." (pg 7). When probed about his people's breach of trust, he quickly brings in the analogy of the hare and the chameleon. (pg 8). He even accuses Thorne to have talked like a waterfall yet said nothing.

He is bold. On pg 7 he is presented as a most self-assured ruler with unnerving presence. He surveys Governor Thorne's room with almost arrogant but deliberate disdain, selects a seat opposite the door and equally sits on it. He reprimands Thorne and reminds him that though he (Thorne) is a governor, but in the soil on which he stands, elders don't bandy insults. He acknowledges to Thorne that he aware of the countrywide uprising in his kingdom and slights the colonial mission of civilization and good will. Moreover, he warns Thorne that as long as the exploitation continues, Thorne's people will continue to die and that they'll have nowhere to hide.

Conclusion

It is always good to stay focussed on your virtues for your own bettermen and the bettermen of the society at large.

(b) Memories we Lost and other stories

With illustrations from the story, Umbrella Man, discuss how symbolism has been developed.

Introduction

Umbrella Man, set in an asylum basically employs the umbrella as symbol for rain, and by extension a hope for freedom from the mental asylum for the inmate referred to as number 7. Moreover, the umbrella is also symbolic of protection and companionship.

Body

Every time number 7 steps out of his ward, he rarely fails to carry the umbrella, and keenly observes the clouds to see whether they will yield rain. "Some how, number 7 was hopeful of the rain that evening as well.. " (pg 46). The barber knows Number 7 is fascinated about the rain and asks him if it will rain soon. Number 7 gives him hope that it going to rain soon. "... I thought you believed in Hope and Nature's miracles. Don't you believe that someday it will rain here and the earth will turn moist and smell of wild flowers." (pg 49). In the end his hope is fulfilled. It rains, even though this happens at night.

The umbrella as a symbol of protection and companionship not only shields the inmate from the scorching sun, but also keep company from the solidarity confinement of the mental asylum. His umbrella is his playmate. He holds it aloft and walks with it leisurely on the compound. During the lonesome nights, he would imagine he is talking to a child. During such moments, he wakes up and watches the child disturbed by unpleasant dream. He comforts the child to go back to sleep and promises to be by the child's side. The umbrella does also act as hope for freedom. Inmate Number 7 who carries this umbrella everywhere he goes is the only one allowed outside the compound. It takes doctors several months to grant Number 7 permission to go outside the compound. This liberty is not an entitlement but a privilege. It is a freedom that can be measured. It ends either at the one-hundred and ninety – square metre compound of the asylum or the ninety – something yards in the narrow avenue outside the gates that ended at another wall. Finally, the committee members unanimously agree that umbrella man is now fit to go home.

Conclusion

Indeed the hope of the umbrella man is fulfilled when it rains on the night that he gets released from the asylum.

2. Read the passage below and answer the questions after it. (25 marks)

a) Where and when does this encounter take place? (2 marks)

➤ Mrs Linde has just visited Nora and in their conversation Nora reveals that she had gotten some money from her father without the knowledge of her husband so that the family could travel to Italy as advised by the doctor in regard to Helmer's health.

b) What is this secret that Nora wants to guard so jealously? Explain with evidence from elsewhere in the play. (3 marks)

- The secret is Nora's loan taken from Krogstad so as to facilitate the family's travel to Italy to conform with the doctor's advice regarding Helmer's health. Helmer had overworked himself and his health was badly affected, so the doctor advised that he takes tie off to reciprocate in a warmer environment. The husband had stubbornly refused to take a loan in spite of their financial situation and the urgency for Helmer's treatment. Nora had to devise "a way out of the difficulty" by borrowing.

c) Describe Nora's mood as she tells Mrs. Linde her story. (3 marks)

- Nora is in a jolly, proud conspiratorial mood. She is speaking to Mrs Linde meditatively and with half a smile. She is proud of what she has done for her husband and her family but does not want to let her husband know about it.

d) Why is it necessary that Nora tells Mrs. Linde her story? (2 marks)

- It is necessary that Nora tells Christine her story to reassure herself that she is also capable of making independent and responsible decisions. Nora had earlier been described as a child who knew "so little of the burdens and troubles of life." She asks Mrs. Linde if she still thinks that she is of no use.

e) Comment on any two themes that are highlighted in this extract. (4 marks)

- There is the theme of family responsibility. The running of the family rests squarely on the man. "Whenever Torvald has given me money for new dresses and such things" Nora has to depend on her husband for virtually everything; so she saves from her housekeeping money to repay the loan she has procured from Krogstad.
- The place of women in the society. A woman is basically meant to please and entertain the husband and manage the home without making any serious decisions. Nora says she would let know the truth "when Torvald is no longer as devoted to me as he is now; when my dancing and dressing-up and reciting have palled on him"
- Trust: In the Helmer's family, there seems to be lack of trust because Nora refuses to tell the husband the truth as she is sure the husband will humiliate her.*

f) "Be quiet!" (Rewrite this in reported speech.) (1 mark)

➤ Nora Told/ ordered Mrs Linde to keep /be quiet

g) Give an example of "wishful thinking" found in this extract. (1 mark)

➤ An example of wishful thinking is where Nora smilingly tells Mrs. Linde that she used to conjure up pictures of a rich old man falling in love with her and bequeath her lots of money through his will. "The lovely Mrs. Nora is to have it all in process paid

2. Man is the defacto leader of the family and when he faults many things are bound to go wrong. Using Ole Kaelo for your illustrations show how the faults by the head of family affect

INTRODUCTION

In the Africa set up men is assured to be the family head. He makes major decisions concerning the family and doesn't have to consult. Ole Kaelo in Blossoms of the Savannah is a perfect example of such Aman.

Unfortunately for him he faults and the effects are clear.

Points of interpretation

- Ole Kaelo solely opts to move his family to Nasila from Nakuru. He assumes that they will be comfortable and that by taking them to his newly build house will make them happy. Unfortunately, the family does not know joy there. Pressure from the community to have the girls circumcised is overwhelming and denies them joy. Sex also abounds.
- Ole kaelo gets financial and from Oloisudori, an evil man against all expectations.
- The result demands to have over his daughter Resian to him. Something that eventually collapses his family.
- Ole Kaelo opts not to educate his daughters further and instead hoping that they will get good Nasila man to marry them. This is against the expectation of the girls. Resian tells him in his fate that she will join University. This decision that he makes affects the family unity and his image before them. In the end the family breaks up as the girls opt out.

- Ole kaelo resolves to have his daughters circumcised and later handover Resian to Oloisudori to be married by him. This is against her wish as the man is old and she does not love him. Her wish is to join Egerton University to further her studies. It is because of this that Resian leaves and is later followed by Taiyo.

Conclusion

Ole Kaelo blindly makes decision that affects his family as seen above

3. (a) Introduction

Paradise and Budapest contrast sharply in their manifestations of the economic duality where extreme poverty is paralleled with abundance and extreme wealth.

- I. Paradise is prejudiced in food and hunger pangs which drive children into stealing guava fruits as Budapest chocks in plenty and waste. The children sneak out of their dwelling place and go to steal guavas because of hunger. The narrator says he would die for guavas or anything because his stomach feels like somebody just took a shovel and dug everything out (pg 97). They have stolen from Chipso's uncle's trees, they have harvested all the fruits at SADC Street and now they are adventuring in the IMF Street where they are sure to find some. By the time they get back to paradise their stomachs are so full they will just drink water for the night, listen to Mother of Bone's stories and go to sleep. Contrast this to the experience of Budapest where the woman comes out eating ice cream and can afford to throw the remains into the waste bin. The children wonder because they have never seen anybody throw food away. (pg 100)
- II. The two neighbourhoods are completely worlds apart in housing and shelter. In paradise the narrator says they live in shanties and shacks. No wonder then that they are mesmerized by the Budapest's big houses with graveled yards and tall fences and walls and flowers and green trees, heavy with guava fruits to steal. (pg 98). They even argue about and adopt houses they can only dream about.(pg 102, 103)
- III. Inequality is also very evident in the distribution of facilities of comfort (recreational facilities). In Budapest, along Hope Street there is a big stadium with the glimmering benches that the children in Paradise will never sit on (pg 97). Mello can afford to eat ice cream the remains of which she even throws into a dust bin. The children from Paradise look at the flying remains of the food flying in the air like a dead bird before hitting the ground. They have never seen anyone throw food away. They can afford to listen to good music, not kwaito or dance hall like in Paradise (pg 100). Mello takes pictures for fun. She has a nice pink camera which fascinate the children because it is not in their experience. No wonder, taking pictures does not appeal to the children at all (pg 101).

- IV. Contrasted social distance (disposition) is manifested in relationships and levels of interactions in Budapest and Paradise. There is certain level of effervescence in Paradise as opposed to Budapest. Children interact easily and even plan to go and steal Guava fruits from the neighbourhood. Women and men can have time for each other (pg 97, 98,102). And the narrator tells us of Mother of Bones telling them stories in the evenings before they sleep. Budapest on the other hand is deserted and forlorn. The narrator says, "Budapest is like a different country...But not an ordinary country – it looks like everybody woke up one day and closed their gates, doors and windows; picked their passports and left...Even the air is empty; no burning things, no smell of cooking food or something rotting; just plain air with nothing in its hands." (pg 98)
- V. Basics in life like clothing and water are so lacking in Paradise whereas there is plenty in Budapest. When Mello run her hands in her hair which looked matted and dirty the narrator wonders and wishes that he was in Budapest, "...if I lived in Budapest I would wash my whole body every day and comb my hair nicely to show I was a real person living in a real place."(pg 101) even clothing is a problem in Paradise. Godknows' shorts are torn at the back and the white fabric is dirty as Basta wears a worn out T-shirt that makes him look so ugly one cannot tell whether he is a man or a woman. In Budapest, Mello is wearing a long neat dress. She is clean and pretty, like a baby. She adorns jewelry and her skin is smooth brown and does not have a scar. (pg 100, 101)
- VI. There is no going to school in paradise. In fact the children believe that going to school is not important anymore. They imagine one can make money without going to school. The importance of school only occurs to them when they are taken to a correction home and they can now read and write. (pg 103, 104-105)

Conclusion

In conclusion the story treats the reader to a clear disparity that is so common in life when it comes to distribution of national resources; one part of the society has in excess what the other part may never live to experience, creating an absurd tilt in life.

(b) THE PEARL

Some things happen in our lives and we think they are blessings. The appearance of a person can appear to glitter when in real sense the character is rotten. It is usually a rude shock when we realize that outward appearances can be deceptive. This is shown clearly in John Steinbeck's novel, The Pearl.

When Kino find the Pearl of the World, he has great dreams. He believes the pearl would drastically improve his life and that of his family. He hopes to marry Juana in church, buy new clothes, educate his son, replace his lost harpoon and buy himself a rifle. Unfortunately, his dreams are shattered. There are attempts to steal it and his life is threatened several times. He does not sell it at a low price offered by the pearl buyers. Consequently, Juana declares it evil and attempts to throw it back to the sea. Kino follows her and wrenches the pearl from her hand and strikes her with his clenched fist and kicks her on the side. He later kills a man, his canoe is vandalized, their brush house is burnt down and they are forced to flee to save their lives. They lose their only child and return home broken only to throw the pearl back to the sea. The glitter in the pearl, finally brings them misfortune and they lose all what they had treasured.

The priest stands for the moral authority in La Paz. Kino's dream is to be married in his church. When he says that discrimination is God designed, Kino and Tomas take it as gospel truth. Unfortunately, we find that Kino and Juana are not married in church and Coyotito's is not baptized simply because they cannot pay. When the priest comes to their house he tactfully tells Kino that he is named after a great man and a great Father of the church. He tells them to remember to give thanks to Him who had given them the treasure. As a result his moral fiber becomes questionable since he is motivated by greed and hopes to benefit from Kino's pearl. This is contrary to the kind of person we expect of him.

A doctor's profession is admired by many people. When we meet him, he is sitting up in his high bed, dressed in a gown of red watered silk and he is taking breakfast from a silver tray with a silver chocolate pot and tiny cup of egg-shell China. Among the furnishing of his room are religious pictures and a large tinted photograph of his late wife. We are surprised to learn that he is discontented in life and harbours memories of high life with a mistress in Paris. Moreover, he refuses to treat Coyotito who has been stung by a scorpion because the family cannot afford his medical fee. When he learns that Kino has a valuable pear, he ironically says Kino is a client of his and that he is treating his child for a scorpion sting. His greed and opportunism is evident when he makes the recovering child sick in order to treat him and be paid from the proceeds of the pearl. All the above prove that appearances can be deceptive.

The stout pearl buyer's face looks fatherly and benign and his eyes twinkled with friendship. He is a caller of good-mornings, a ceremonious shaker of hands, and a jolly man who knew all jokes. However, his deception is revealed when Kino entered his office to sell the pearl. His eyes become as steady and cruel and unwinding as a hawk's eyes while the rest of his face smiled in greeting. He cheats that he is going to value and give Kino the best price. After examining the pearl, he puts on a sad and contemptuous smile and declares it a fool's gold and a curiosity only suitable for a museum. He even invites other dealers to support his opinion. His presence is revealed when he, together with other dealers panic when Kino refuses to sell the pearl to him. He further offers to give one thousand five hundred pesos. This proves that his appearance is deceptive.

Conclusion

(c) Inheritance

Introduction: In life people tend to get much more attached to people who are related to them by blood. This is , however not always the case. The play brings out cases that appear to regate this.

Content:

- King Kutula XV is more attached and devoted to his adopted daughter Sangoi. He moves around with her and it is known to many that she is the favourite one. This is even though he has a biological child.
- Lacuna, who is the king's son, accepts to be used by Bishop Menninger to end his own father's life. Lacuna does this in a very cold way.
- As a leader, Lacuna locks his only sister Sangoi out of government and openly shows hostility to her. When he finally picks her to government he makes it clear that it was not his wish.
- Lacuna makes the lives of his own people very difficult. Under him the people suffer more than they did in the colonial era.

Conclusion

It is not always the case that the people close to you will be of help.

They lose their only child and return home broken only to throw the pearl back to the sea. The glitter in the pearl, finally brings them misfortune and they lose all what they had treasured.

The priest stands for the moral authority in La Paz. Kino's dream is to be married in his church. When he says that discrimination is God designed, Kino and Tomas take it as gospel truth. Unfortunately, we find that Kino and Juana are not married in church and Coyotito's is not baptized simply because they cannot pay. When the priest comes to their house he tactfully tells Kino that he is named after a great man and a great Father of the church. He tells them to remember to give thanks to Him who had given them the treasure. As a result his moral fiber becomes questionable since he is motivated by greed and hopes to benefit from Kino's pearl. This is contrary to the kind of person we expect of him.

A doctor's profession is admired by many people. When we meet him, he is sitting up in his high bed, dressed in a gown of red watered silk and he is taking breakfast from a silver tray with a silver chocolate pot and tiny cup of egg-shell China. Among the furnishing of his room are religious pictures and a large tinted photograph of his late wife. We are surprised to learn that he is discontented in life and harbours memories of high life with a mistress in Paris. Moreover, he refuses to treat Coyotito who has been stung by a scorpion because the family cannot afford his medical fee. When he learns that Kino has a valuable pear, he ironically says Kino is a client of his and that he is treating his child for a scorpion sting. His greed and opportunism is evident when he makes the recovering child sick in order to treat him and be paid from the proceeds of the pearl. All the above prove that appearances can be deceptive.

The stout pearl buyer's face looks fatherly and benign and his eyes twinkled with friendship. He is a caller of good-mornings, a ceremonious shaker of hands, and a jolly man who knew all jokes. However, his deception is revealed when Kino entered his office to sell the pearl. His eyes become as steady and cruel and unwinding as a hawk's eyes while the rest of his face smiled in greeting. He cheats that he is going to value and give Kino the best price. After examining the pearl, he puts on a sad and contemptuous smile and declares it a fool's gold and a curiosity only suitable for a museum. He even invites other dealers to support his opinion. His presence is revealed when he, together with other dealers panic when Kino refuses to sell the pearl to him. He further offers to give one thousand five hundred pesos. This proves that his appearance is deceptive.

Conclusion...

Q2. The failure By Mama Milinoi to play her role effectively as the mother to Taiyo and Resian has drastic effects on their lives. Write an essay showing the validity.

INTRODUCTION

The issue of motherhood is very crucial in raising of children into responsible people. When mothers fail in their role the effects can be unbearable at times. Mama Milanoi is one such a mother who fails in her role as a parent. This is as seen in the text Blossom of the Savannah by HR Ole Kulet.

POINTS OF INTERPRETATION

- Mama Milanoi fails to protect Resian against continued open harassment from her husband Ole Kaelo. She fails to reproach her husband for disliking her daughter for no particular reason apart from being a girl. This makes Resian feel out of place and widens the gap between father and daughter.
- When Ole Kaelo decides to have the girls circumcised mama Milanoi does not agree with him. She however fails to get courage enough to dissolve him. She keeps quiet and even supports his activities.
- The result is continued mistrust in the family and the girls' desire to be away from their home.
- After Resian makes her escape mama Milanoi is actively involved in having Taiyo mutilated in readiness to be handed over to Oloisundoni as a wife. This is against her wish. The experience leaves a permanent scar on the life of Taiyo.
- When Oloisundoni makes his visit at home it is obvious that he harasses Resian who does not hesitate to make her mother aware. The mother instead of coming to the defense of her daughter rebukes her and sends her back to Oloisundori where she is harassed further.

Conclusion:

The irresponsible behavior by Mama Milanoi as a mother leaves the daughter with permanent pain as discussed above.

Oloisudori betrays Ole Kaelo. Though they were close business friends. Oloisudori blackmails Ole Kaelo so that Ole Kaelo has no option but to marry off his daughter to Oloisudori.

Mama Milanoi who is the mother to Taiyo betrays her by allowing her to accompany three women to take her to Resian only for her to end up being forcefully subjected to F.G.M

Ole Kaelo, father to Taiyo refuses to allow his daughter Taiyo to travel to Mombasa with the other youth selected by an FM radio station for a music extravaganza. To him participating would be like engaging in prostitution.

Ole Kaelo also betrays his daughter's ambitions to join Egerton University preferring instead to marry them off to Oloisudori. This shows he is not ready to help them realize their dreams as a father should do.

Ole Kaelo betrays Resian. He openly shows his resentment to Resian. Constantly rebuking her for even the slightest of mistake she makes. He hates because he expected a boy child not a girl child. This leaves Resian with a low self-esteem and fearful.

Olarinkoi, who is occasionally accommodated by the Ole Kaelo's and is even though he is not part of their family, later betrays the Ole Kaelo's when he abducts Resian with the intention of eloping with her. This is betrayal to a family that had hosted him.

2. Read the passage below and answer the questions after it. (25 marks)

a) Where and when does this encounter take place? (2 marks)

- Mrs Linde has just visited Nora and in their conversation Nora reveals that she had gotten some money from her father without the knowledge of her husband so that the family could travel to Italy as advised by the doctor in regard to Helmer's health.

b) What is this secret that Nora wants to guard so jealously? Explain with evidence from elsewhere in the play. (3 marks)

- The secret is Nora's loan taken from Krogstad so as to facilitate the family's travel to Italy to conform with the doctor's advice regarding Helmer's health. Helmer had overworked himself and his health was badly affected, so the doctor advised that he takes time off to recuperate in a warmer environment. The husband had stubbornly refused to take a loan in spite of their financial situation and the urgency for Helmer's treatment. Nora had to devise "a way out of the difficulty" by borrowing.

c) Describe Nora's mood as she tells Mrs. Linde her story. (3 marks)

- Nora is in a jolly, proud conspiratorial mood. She is speaking to Mrs Linde meditatively and with half a smile. She is proud of what she has done for her husband and her family but does not want to let her husband know about it.

d) Why is it necessary that Nora tells Mrs. Linde her story? (2 marks)

- It is necessary that Nora tells Christine her story to reassure herself that she is also capable of making independent and responsible decisions. Nora had earlier been described as a child who knew “so little of the burdens and troubles of life.” She asks Mrs. Linde if she still thinks that she is of no use.

e) Comment on any two themes that are highlighted in this extract. (4 marks)

- There is the theme of family responsibility. The running of the family rests squarely on the man. “Whenever Torvald has given me money for new dresses and such things” Nora has to depend on her husband for virtually everything; so she saves from her housekeeping money to repay the loan she has procured from Krogstad.
- The place of women in the society. A woman is basically meant to please and entertain the husband and manage the home without making any serious decisions. Nora says she would let know the truth “when Torvald is no longer as devoted to me as he is now; when my dancing and dressing-up and reciting have palled on him”
- Trust: In the Helmer’s family, there seems to be lack of trust because Nora refuses to tell the husband the truth as she is sure the husband will humiliate her.

f) “Be quiet!” (Rewrite this in reported speech.) (1 mark)

- Nora Told/ ordered Mrs Linde to keep /be quiet

g) Give an example of “wishful thinking” found in this extract. (1 mark)

- An example of wishful thinking is where Nora smilingly tells Mrs. Linde that she used to conjure up pictures of a rich old man falling in love with her and bequeath her lots of money through his will. “The lovely Mrs. Nora is to have it all in process paid

h) Referring to Nora's first speech in the extract, identify and comment on any two traits of hers. (4 marks)

- Nora is romantic. She is in love with Torvald and imagines all this air of love and the two (husband and wife) being together. She also fantasises about a rich old man falling in love with her.
- She is responsible. She ensures the family is well taken care of "Torvald must have a good table and the children must dress well."
- Prudent. She had to save money here and there to buy cheap dresses.
- She is secretive. She ensures her husband does not know about what she has done (borrowing money)

i) "It was like being a man" Basing your observation on this statement, briefly comment on the society's attitude towards women. (2 marks)

- Derogatory, demeaning - The women are looked down upon by men and they are not supposed to own money as it is man's world.

j) Explain the meaning of the following expressions as used in the extract: (3marks)

- i) palled: faded/ reduced in intensity/ dwindled/ become less attractive/ dull
- ii) save a little here and there. put aside some little money from whatever available source.
- iii) housekeeping money - finance/ money meant for maintaining the family household.

Q2. BLOSSOMS

-Most people reach the end of the tether in difficult situations and are just about to give up when help comes. Most instances of help appear coincidental but nonetheless; they change the course of life of the character as well as shaping the rest of the novel.

-Olarinkoi seems to be at the right place at the right time. He happens to be the savior of Resian and Taiyo when they need help most. He comes to the rescue of the two girls when they are coming from their father's shop and are about to be raped by two men. -- Olarinkoi single-handedly saves the girls by fighting the men. Resian and Taiyo are much grateful and would not want to imagine what would have happened if he had not come at that time, even fearing that they would have been infected with HIV.

-Olarinkoi again comes to the rescue of Resian when she discovers her father's betrayal by planning to marry her off to Oloisudori. He comes to her rescue when she is even contemplating committing suicide by drowning herself into the river. At the same time, - Oloisudori and his men are looking for her to abduct her. Olarinkoi promises to take her to Minik whom she had been yearning to meet someday. Although the help turns disastrous with Olarinkoi turning against her, she is able to escape the current wrath of Oloisudori.

-Taiyo is rescued from the hands of her circumcisers by Minik's men. Minik's rescue team use tricks to rescue her from the well-guarded home which she would not have escaped in her sickly state. Were it not for Minik's intervention, Taiyo would surely have been forcefully married off to Oloisudori after healing. The rescue gives Taiyo a new lease of life, reunion with her sister and of course quicker physical and emotional recovery.

Minik's help to Resian and Taiyo perhaps is the most important event that completely changes their lives. She gives refuge to the girls in her ranch hence protecting them from marauding men like Oloisudori and Olarinkoi. She gives Resian a job in the ranch hence giving her something to live on and promises her a scholarship from the ranch. Most importantly, she is able to have the two girls enrolled at Egerton University, their dream university. These kind gestures create a happy ending in a novel that has been dominated by sad events.

When people are about to despair, that is usually the point when help comes. No matter how belated characters like Resian and Taiyo get help, their lives are greatly impacted and changed by those interventions.

3 (a) The Pearl

Introduction –Kino's determination to fight poverty and guarantee a future of comfort and security is rewarded with a rare find of the greatest pearl in the world. However, such determination is marked with a mad obsession that blocks him from being reasonable (sober) Mi -A thief gets into his house and attempts to steal the pearl from where he buried it. Kino fights the thief off with a knife. He however receives a blow on his head and Juana has to nurse him. Her plea for Kino to throw the pearl "This pearl is like sin! It will destroy us" is met with a stubborn resolve to keep it.

Mii -When Kino steps out of his brush house, Juana hears a little rush, a grunting struggle and a blow. In terror, she comes out with a stone from the fire place only to find Kino on the ground struggling to rise. He had been attacked by a thief in need of the pearl. She entreats him to do away with the pearl: Let us throw it back in the sea where it belongs Kino, it is evil, it is evil! Kino is determined to defend and protect it at all costs.

Miii -At cock-crow, Kino senses his wife moving quietly to the fireplace and takes the pearl intending to throw it into the sea. He follows her, wrenches the pearl out of her hands and strikes her in the face with his clenched fist. She falls among the boulders and he kicks her in the side. He becomes violent and half insane.

Miv -As he moves away from his wife, Kino is attacked and his attackers ransack him. Luckily, the pearl drops from his hand and falls near a stone. He kills a man with his knife. Kino and his family attempt to flee from their village; but to his dismay, his canoe has a hole in it. He was an animal now, for hiding, for attacking pg.87

Mv - Kino is not ready to take advice from Juan Tomas or Juana, his wife and get rid of the pearl. He says the pearl has become his soul. "If I give it up I shall lose my soul." Pg. 92

Mvi -Kino readily counters any threats to himself and his family. He ceases to be human and becomes an animal. Kino kills the three trackers in a moment of sheer madness. "....the big knife swung free in his right hand."

Write an essay to support the above statement.

Introduction

Some people are not satisfied with what they have and want more all the time. Leo Toistay's short story "How much land does man need? Is a clear illustration of this.

Gi) He had a farm and a house but wanted more

- He had 123 acres of land and pasture.
- As he farmed, the number of cattle kept increasing.
- He had a thought that this land was not enough.
- He wanted wider and more fertile.
- How can I have more land?

Gii) He was easily convinced to go buy land from the Bashkris

- A passing dealer tells him there is cheap land in land of the Bashkris.
- 'I have to go there and buy land' he thinks.
- He enquired how to get to Bashkris and buys many presents in the market.
- He started on the journey and took his servant with him.

Giii) He could not sleep, thinking of the land he would acquire

- "If I walk the whole day' what a large track I will mark off!....."
- He lay awake all night.
- When shown the land his eyes glistened; there was wide land in front of his eyes.
- "I will get the largest and the best land above all the people!"

Giv) He bit more than he could chew

- He tried to get more land than his body could sustain in walking.
- He kept walking without thinking.
- He felt serious pain but pressed on.
- He threw away his coat, his shoes, his flask and his cap.
- His legs gave away beneath him and he fell forward.
- He dies after straining to get more land.

Conclusion

It is out of greed and obsession to get more land that Palom strains to get and dies tragically.

3 c) Inheritance

(a) Drama

Inheritance by David Mulwa

Write an essay on the admirable character traits of King Kutula XV basing your arguments on the play, Inheritance by David Mulwa.

Introduction

The admirable character of King Kutula XV in the play enables the reader to enjoy the text, this helps to expound on the main issues in the play. His admirable character traits are exemplified.

He is protective. He fiercely protects his countrymen from colonial exploitation. He compares their relationship with the colonial masters to that of the proverbial freezing elephant and the farmer who could neither share the same hut nor see eye to eye. He says he regrets the day their fore father agreed to cooperate with the colonial master. He says that all that he wants is stop the colonial exploitation of their land's minerals(gold, silver, oil) and wants them to equally share the returns from the minerals instead of the current take – all scenario.

He is humble. He deters the continued streaming of praises directed towards him from Mr. Thorne's attendant's (pg. 6)..." Naw, naw, naw! Don't carry on my son. His mortal excellency doesn't understand a word you say!" He also respectfully addresses Thorne Macay as Governor, and Menninger as Voice of God. He does also request to sit down after he is in the office of Thorne.

He is wise. He appropriately uses proverbs in his speech. When urging Thorne to proceed in his speech he tells him, "It's a weak suitor who asks his new bride how to proceed." (pg 7). When probed about his people's breach of trust, he quickly brings in the analogy of the hare and the chameleon. (pg 8). He even accuses Thorne to have talked like a waterfall yet said nothing.

He is bold. On pg 7 he is presented as a most self-assured ruler with unnerving presence. He surveys Governor Thorne's room with almost arrogant but deliberate disdain, selects a seat opposite the door and equally sits on it. He reprimands Thorne and reminds him that though he (Thorne) is a governor, but in the soil on which he stands, elders don't bandy insults. He acknowledges to Thorne that he aware of the countrywide uprising in his kingdom and slights the colonial mission of civilization and good will.

Moreover, he warns Thorne that as long as the exploitation continues, Thorne's people will continue to die and that they'll have nowhere to hide.

Conclusion

It is always good to stay focussed on your virtues for your own bettermen and the bettermen of the society at large.

KABARAK HIGH SCHOOL
KCSE TRIAL AND PRACTICE EXAM - July 2019
English- Paper 3
Marking Scheme

1. IMAGINATIVE COMPOSITION

This question is intended to test the candidate's ability to communicate in writing. Communication is established at different levels of intelligibility, correctness, accuracy, fluency, pleasantness and originality within the constraints set by each question. It is the linguistic competence shown by the candidate that should carry most of the marks.

Examiners should not hesitate to use the full range of marks for each essay. It is important to determine first how each essay communicates and in which category A, B, C or D it fits.

D CLASS

The candidate does not communicate at all 01-05 or his language ability is so minimal that the examiner practically has to guess what the candidates want to say. The candidate fails to fit the English words he knows into meaningful sentences. The subject is glanced at or distorted. Practically no valid punctuation. All kind of errors "Broken English"

D-(01-02)

Chaotic, little meaning whatsoever. Question paper or some words from it simply copied.

D(03)

Flow of thought almost impossible to follow the errors are continuous

D+(04-05)

Although the English is then broken and the essay is full of errors of all types we can at least guess what the candidate wants to say.

C CLASS (06-07)

The candidate communicates understandably but only more or less clearly. He is not confident with his language. The subject is often undeveloped. There may be some digression. Unnecessary repetitions are frequent. The arrangement is weak and the flow jerky. There is no economy of language mother tongue influence is felt. Watch for repetition for emphasis.

C – (06-07)

The candidate obviously finds it difficult to communicate his ideas. He is seriously hampered by his very limited knowledge of structure and vocabulary. This results in many gross errors of agreement and sentence construction.

C 08

The candidate communicates but not with consistent clarity. His linguistic abilities being very limited, he cannot avoid frequent errors in sentence structure. There is little variety or originality. Very bookish English links are weak, incorrect, repeated at times.

C+(09-10)

The candidate communicates clearly but in flat and uncertain manner. Simple concepts sentence forms are often strained. There may be an overuse of clichés unsuitable idioms, proverbs are misquoted or misinterpreted. The flow is still jerky. There are some errors of agreement, tenses and spelling can have some merit ticks.

B CLASS (11-15)

This class is characterized by greater fluency and ease of expression. The candidate demonstrates that he can use English or normal way of expressing himself. Sentences are varied and usually well constructed. Some candidates become illogically ambitious and even over ambitious. There may be items of merit of one word or one expression type. Many essays in this category may be just and clean and unassuming but they still show that the candidate is at ease with the language. There may be a tendency to under mark such essays. Give credit for tone.

B-(11-12)

The candidate communicates fairly and with some fluency. There may be little variety in sentence structure. Gross errors are still found occasionally, but this must not be over punished by the examiner.

B13

The sentences are varied but rather simple and straight forward. The candidate does not himself in an effort to impress. There is a fair range of vocabulary and idiom. Natural and effortless. Some items of merit, economy of language.

B+(14-15)

The candidate communicates his ideas pleasantly and without strain. There are errors and slips. Tenses, spelling and punctuation are quite good. A number of items of merit of the “whole sentence” or the “whole expression” type merit ticks phrasal verbs, inversions, idioms etc variety of sentences, correct vocabulary.

A CLASS

The candidate communicates not only fluently but attractively, with originality and efficiency. He has the ability to make us share his deep feelings, emotions, enthusiasms. He expresses himself freely and without any visible constraint. The script gives evidence of maturity, good planning and often humour. Many items of merit which indicate that the candidate has complete command of the language. There is no strain, just pleasantness, clever arrangement, felicity of expression. Contrast, irony.

A-(16-17)

The candidate shows competence and fluency in using the language. He may lack imagination or originality which usually provides the “spark” in such essay.

Vocabulary, idioms, sentence structure links variety are impressive. Gross errors are very rare.

A 18

Positive ability. A few errors that are felt to the slips. The story or argument has a definite impact. No grammar – problem variety of structures. A definite spark many margin ticks.

A+(19-20)

The candidate communicates not only information and meaning, but also and especially the candidate’s whole self, his feelings, tastes, points of view, youth, culture.

This ability to communicate is deep self may express itself in many ways wide range of effective vocabulary, original approach, vivid and sustained account in the case of a debate or discussion.

Errors and slips should not deprive the candidate of the full marks he deserves. A very definite spark.

Brackets (): Indicate a part of a D script that communicates.

(VW) marking scheme-English 3

Use an asterisk to indicate an item or a sentence that the rubrics indicate should be used.

ii) To indicate an item of merit use a tick (✓) either above a word or in the margin for the whole sentence.

Gross Errors

- Almost any error of agreement
- Serious tense error
- Error of elementary vocabulary; spelling and misuse
- Punctuation errors or missing punctuation which cause serious lack of communication.
- Elementary errors of sentence construction.
- Ridiculous use of idiom that affects communication.
- Misuse of common prepositions.

- h) Misuse of capital letters –use CAPS underline the first page and use CAPS on subsequent pages where the mistake persists.

MARKING NORMAL SCRIPTS

- a) Decide on the degree of communication achieved A-D
- b) After underlining decide on the mark category
- c) Allocate a numerical mark to each essay

PROBLEM SCRIPTS

All problem scripts must be marked by the examiner and then sent to the team leader with comments.

IRRELEVANCY

- a) Consistent distortion of questions, writing on a totally different subject with a clumsy attempt at connecting the essay to the subject given, inclusion of memorized passage etc.
- b) The question is given an unacceptable or questionable interpretation.
- c) Essays contain long, semi-relevant digressions or lack of coherence.

ACTION

The examiner marks the essay, gives a linguistic mark and comments on the nature of the irrelevancy. The essay is then passed over to the T.L who judges whether the irrelevancy should be judged as a deliberate attempt to deceive or should be attributed to the candidate's poor understanding of the subject. Deduct upto 4mks for irrelevancy in the essay. If dishonesty is suspected, the C.E should be informed. Any deduction of 3mks or more should be referred to the C.E

4. CONTRAVENTION OF RUBRIC

Since the rubrics may change from year to year, the points of interpretation that are apart of this marking scheme must be consulted and adhered to faithfully. Here are some general rules that usually apply.

5. SCRIPTS THAT DO NOT COMMUNICATE

(Broken language)

- a) Decide on the category D+, D or D-
 - b) Mark the errors on the first page of each essay
 - c) Read the other pages, if the essay still does not communicate, draw a diagonal line across each page.
 - d) Teachers should look at a good number of those scripts and ensure that the mark given is fair.
1. - Must end with the given words.
- The story must demonstrate a situation where the events that took place show clearly how the choices made brought about results.
- Deduct 2mks if story exceeds 2 pages.
b) – Must be a story –if not deduct 4mks

- The story must be relevant to the saying – if not deduct up to 4mks
2. Introduction – (2mks)
- Body: Points of interpretation;
- The kind of parenting by Mama Milanoi and her husband does not herald peace and trust in their family.
 - The girls desire to join the university does not receive any attention from the parents. The girls get emotionally affected as a result.
 - Ole Kaelo's acerbic/stinging tongue is a source of discomfort to his daughters. They enjoy his absence from the house.
 - The parents secretly conspire to marry off Resian to Oloisudori, which leads to her escape from home and her misery. This betrays her trust.
 - Resian is fully aware that the father loves Taiyo and hates her.
 - Resian is always on the receiving end, being cajoled and criticized for this or for that by the father. She knows no peace in the family.

3. Inheriting a top seat without merit only invites ridicule from subjects.

Introduction:

- In the Inheritance, Mulwa exposes the vices in Kutula colony by Lacuna and his government in a rather exaggerated manner as discussed below. King Lacuna abuses power and takes advantages of his position to exploit and oppress his subjects. He orders the killing of anyone who opposes his leadership. He asked Juda Zen Melo to kill his brother Bengo who is an activist and a threat to his leadership. When he refuses, he faces the consequences by being sacked and evicted from the government house and his car is taken away. He is also forced to sell his farm to Lacuna's cronies for peanuts and the wife is forced to work in the same farm to make ends meet.
- His leadership is also satirized when he uses money meant for the country's economic growth for his own selfish gains. He buys an aircraft and deposits the rest in his own account in the same banks that lend the money.
- His greed for power is highly satirized. It is ridiculous that he takes his father's life so that he can get to power. He colludes with the imperialists to poison his father so that he is installed the new king.
- The imperialists are also satirized. Their despising and demeaning attitude towards the blacks is highly criticized.
- It is laughable that the financiers justify such conditions in the name of helping the people. It is expected that financiers would be sensitive and practical in their demands.
- Others satirized include kings cronies like chiparde and government officials who worship him, and are ready to do anything to please him.

Conclusion

From the above discussion, it is quite clear that the author has satirized the poor leadership and the resulting predicaments.

3b) Memories we lost

Introduction

Every writer sets out to pass a certain message or communicate a particular issue to the audience through their work. Benjamin highlights a few concepts in the story "window seat"

1. Lawlessness our roads, vehicles should always follow traffic rules on the roads for safety in this story law and order on roads is not followed as it should be.e.g public transport vehicles are overloaded. The narrator says a min-van meant for ten passengers now carry twenty four of them. It is even worse in the rush hour.
2. Bribery and corruption-drivers bribe policemen in order to get away with crime. Even when things seem to be okay with the vehicle the policemen solicit for bribes is an extent of removing the car keys from ignition. The bribe is a very powerful voice that the police use to silence the adamant drivers.
3. Suffering a passengers. The narrator says that one learns not to commit to a long road because of discomfort. However they don't seem to care or they are used to it. They even smack their lips loudly when the policemen take bribes but they don't take any step. It is even because of overloading that makes it easy for Kenga to rob the narrator.
4. Poverty people at the bus stop are said to be in sandals and others are barefoot; this means they cannot afford better shoes. The passengers could be suffering in silence. In the overloaded daladala because of poverty. This is because they pay less money for fare.The narrator describes Kenga that she has a trim figure probably caused by a lifetime of hardwork and deprivation of luxuries. It also possible that she stole from the narrator because she is poor.
5. The word Mzungu means a white men. The Africans call them this to mean he is from the white race. The Africans see the narrator as more superior than them and use even a spectacle that he is using the public. When the guard greets him at the city Chui, everybody turns to see him Africans perceive the white men as rich and wealthy that's why Kanga robs him in the vehicle. The narrator chooses to date Monique a French girl because she is from their race. He says "I should be with the France girl la fille because French woman are absolutely like American men.

Conclusion

Major issues that can be related to our day today life's are highlighted in the story. Such issues such as poverty, lawlessness on our roads and poverty need to be dealt with for better life.

3c) The Pearl by John Steinback Sample introduction

Greed is evident throughout the text as exhibited from the actions of various characters in the text. Kino, a pearl fisherman finds superb pearl. News of this great discovery spread to admiration and greed for the pearl in equal measure.

Points to consider

The priest on hearing about the finding of the pearl starts to think of the need for church repairs. He wonders whether Kino and Juana have been properly married (in church) and whether Coyotito has been baptized. As a result, he makes a trip to Kino's village driven by greed to lay his hand on the newly found fortune. His was an indirect approach.

After Kino finds the pearl, the doctor, who had at first refused to treat Coyotito, takes upon himself to deliver the medicine to 'cure' Coyotito. He injects Coyotito with a drug to ensure he is sick so as to later 'cure' him. While in the homestead, his darting eyes are focused on Kino to get a clue on where the pearl might be hidden. This shows his greedy nature.

The pearl buyers had opened different offices in town with a sole aim of exploiting the pearl fishermen. They had collaborated with an aim of buying the pearl at the cheapest price and when Kino fails to fall for their trap they dismiss his pearl of being of poor quality. This portrays their greed.

The pearl exposes Kino's family to so much danger. There are a number of attempts to end his life. Those responsible were driven by greed. They wanted to own the pearl due to its fortune. At the same time, Kino killed in self defense. His hut is burnt down and his boat is knocked. All this shows the greedy nature of the thieves who want to own the pearl.

Greed is also noted among the beggars who pitched camp outside the church. They also hope to benefit from pearl for they know there is no alms giver like a poor man who suddenly becomes rich. They believe that when Kino sells the pearl they will benefit.

The villagers followed every detail concerning Kino's pearl through Kino's brother Juan Toma. This shows some element of greed.

Conclusion

It is evident that greed for material wealth is inherent even in some cases where individual effort has not been raised.

2. Read the excerpt below and then answer questions that below.

Helmer (calls out from his room). Is that my little lark twittering out there?

Nora (busy opening some of the parcels). Yes, it is!

Helmer. Is it my little squirrel bustling about?

Nora. Yes!

Helmer. When did my squirrel come home?

Nora. Just now.

(Puts the bag of macaroons into her pocket and wipes her mouth.)

Come in here, Torvald, and see what I have bought.

HELMER. Don't disturb me.

(A little later, he opens the door and looks into the room, pen in hand.)

Bought, did you say? All these things? Has my little spendthrift been wasting money again?

Nora. Yes but, Torvald, this year we really can let ourselves go a little. This is the first Christmas that we have not needed to economise.

Helmer. Still, you know, we can't spend money recklessly. Nora. Yes, Torvald, we may be a wee bit more reckless now, mayn't we? Just a tiny wee bit! You are going to have a big salary and earn lots and lots of money.

Helmer. Yes, after the New Year; but then it will be a whole quarter before the salary is due.

Nora. Pooh! We can borrow until then.

Helmer. Nora! (Goes up to her and takes her playfully by the ear.) The same little featherhead!

Suppose, now, that I borrowed fifty pounds today, and you spent it all in the Christmas week, and then on New Year's Eve a slate fell on my head and killed me, and—

Nora (putting her hands over his mouth). Oh! don't say such horrid things.

Helmer. Still, suppose that happened,—what then?

Nora. If that were to happen, I don't suppose I should care whether I owed money or not.

Helmer. Yes, but what about the people who had lent it?

3. Read the narrative below and then answer questions that follow.

There was a great famine in the land where Obunde and his wife, Oswera, lived with their nine children. The only creatures who had some food were the ogres and before they would part with their food, they demanded a lot of things.

One day, Oswera went to one Ogre's home and asked him for some food, for by then her children were almost dying of hunger.

'I have no more food except sweet potatoes, the ogre told her.

'I shall be happy to have the potatoes. We have nothing, not a grain of food at my house and the children are starving. Please let me have some and I shall repay you after the harvest.

'No, if you want food you must exchange with something right now. Will you give me one of your children in exchange for my potatoes? Oswera hesitated, her children were dear to her, but then they would die without food.

'Yes, I shall let you have one of them for his meal, if only you could let us have some potatoes,' Oswera answered. Then she took a big basket full of potatoes and told the ogre the exact time he could go to her home to collect one of her children for a meal.

Oswera thought hard and she decided she would not give a single one of her children to the ogre for a meal. She therefore cut young banana stalks and cooked them nicely.

When the ogre came, she gave them to him and the beast greedily went away satisfied. Soon the potatoes were finished and she had to go to the ogre again.

Oswera and Obunde, her husband kept on cooking banana stalks for the ogre each time he came for one of their children, until one day, she had no more banana stalks to cook for the animal.

"You have now eaten all my children, yet we still need the potatoes. What shall we give your now?" Oswera asked in despair.

'Then I shall come for you and your husband,' the ogre replied angrily as he helped Oswera to load her basket of potatoes on her head.

'Yes come tomorrow at the usual time in the afternoon and get me. I shall have cooked myself for you,' Oswera said calmly.

The following day the ogre went promptly as Oswera had told him and he found the home almost deserted. He looked everywhere but a part from Obunde there was no trace of anybody.

Then he looked at the usual place and found a huge bowl of a big meal Oswera had cooked for him. The ogre did not realize they had prepared a dog instead of Oswera. When he had eaten the ogre told Obunde he would come for him the following day. Obunde got very worried and that night he could not sleep. The following day he started crying:

"Ah Oswera my wife, how did you cook yourself and how shall I cook myself for the ogre?" He sat down in the dust of his compound and wept. Oswera became very annoyed with her husband.

You, you stupid, foolish man! Why sit and cry there all day long? How do you think I cooked myself? Take one of the dogs and quickly prepare it for the ogre!

Very quickly Obunde got up, caught, killed and prepared a dog for the ogre. Then he joined his wife and children in a huge hollow part of a tree in his compound where they had hidden.

That day the ogre knew he was going to have his last meal of juicy human flesh. Being a generous and unselfish ogre, he brought many of his fellow ogres. They were going to have a feat.

Suddenly as they were eating, they heard a man singing very happily. No they could not believe it! It was Obunde singing! And he was boasting of how he had cheated the ogre.

The greedy ogre ate banana stalks
Not my family;
The greedy ogre ate a dog
Not Obunde Magoro!
The greedy ogre ate banana stalks
Not my family;
Now come and get Obunde,
His children and wife.

Obunde sang the words and the ogres got very angry. The first ogre rushed into the hollow of the tree, but Oswera had heated a long piece of iron until it was white. She pushed the iron into the ogre's mouth. The beast fell down dead. The next one rushed into the hollow and Oswera killed him in the same way. In this way she killed all the ogres and saved her husband and all their children.

My story ends there.

2. Resian in the Blossoms of the savannah seems to experience several challenging situations in her life. In the scenarios she seems resolute in her actions as shown in the following ways.

Oloisudori declares his intention of marrying her at an early age. This follows after he changes his initial plan: extorting Kaelo. He demands that she should first be circumcised so as to get rid of her state as nemengalana intoiye. He intends to use anesthesia to make her unconscious and grab her. Resian resolves not to be married. She tells Oloisudori point blank that she cannot be his wife. She returns the gifts that he had earlier brought and escapes to her father;s shop. Her father beats her so as to submit to the marriage,but Resian remains steady is her decision. A number of callous youth in Nasila wish to assault resian and Taiyo. In the first days,Resian and Taiyo take a walk around uncle simiren compound. All of a sudden a young man emerges from the blues and grabs Taiyo. Resian order the callous young man to release Taiyo immediately. The Young man has no option but to give in though he promises to revisit his grave decision.

Though in a dream,enkamuratani and other two women surround Resian to circumcise her holding an olmurunya. Although Resian is in a strange land and is defenseless she does her best to combat the situation. Determined,Resian twists enkamuratani's hand with an intention of ensuring that she does not initiate other girls in the future. She knocks the old witch using a mallet as well as fights the third woman until she disappears.

Olarinkoi disappears with Resian to a far hut in the forest. He locks her up and returns very late in the night while drunk. Once he returns,he is in his mission of raping her. He unzips and this gesture sets her trembling. She bites Olarinkoi's thumb so that the pain reduces his action of rape. Owing to the fact that Resian had earlier witnessed Olarinkoi's fiery attacks when he dealt with two callous men,it calls for a lot of determination on the part of Resian to tackle him.

In summary, from the above illustrations it is evident that Resian suffers rough challenging times in her life but she deals with all these situations with determination.

3 (a) Short Story

Introduction:

At times people drive others to their deaths without consciously knowing what they are doing. This is the case with Esteban whose death can be blamed on the villagers.

Content

- Esteban had been uncomfortable getting into the village houses because the doors were small for him and he had to get in sideways and at times would hit his head on cross beams.
- The chairs in the village were weak for Esteban, something that made him feel out of place in his huge size. He had to stand most of the time as others sat.
- The women always talked negatively about him. They did not appreciate his presence in the homes and referred to him as "big boob" or "handsome fool."
- The men seem remorseful also for making Esteban feel out of place, in the village even clothes would not fit him and the narrator says, ".....it was not his fault that he was so big or so heavy or so handsome" (Pg 141). Both the men and the women blame themselves for not making him fit in the village.

Conclusion

Knowingly or subconsciously the villagers made Esteban feel out of place. They seem to admit this in the end and give him a good send off after owning him. They also do several things in his memory.

(b) The Novel

John Steinbeck: The Pearl

The Novel The Pearl by John Steinbeck

"Greed leads to evil." Write a composition to show the truth of this statement using illustrations from John Steinbeck's The Pearl. (20mks)

Accept a relevant introduction

- The doctor declines to treat Kino's child, Coyotito, of the scorpion sting because he has no money (has only small worthless pearls).
- The pearl buyers are out to take advantage of Kino and his pearl. Their goal is to cheat him and ruin his plans of happiness and peace for his family.
- The doctor comes to take advantage of Kino's ignorance by making Coyotito sick and pretending that his illness is the result of the scorpion sting. He pretends as if he does not know of Kino's pearl, yet the only reason he has come to treat Coyotito was to try and seek out where Kino might be hiding it.

- Kino is attacked several times as attackers want to rob him of the pearl of the world.
 - The pearl turns Juana and kino against one another. At the beginning of the story, they are very close but the pearl divides them. Kino attacks and injures his wife when she wants to throw it into the sea.
 - Kino is forced to kill a man to defend himself and the pearl.
 - His hut is burned after someone searching for the pearl has ransacked it.
 - Trackers follow kino and his family and they have to hide in the mountain. Finally, Kino's child is shot.
- Accept a relevant conclusion.

(c) Introduction

Lacuna's evil nature is a reflection of the evil nature of most of the leaders of failed states.

Content

- Lacuna is tribalistic as seen from the people he has appointed to key positions. This is also reflected in the army.
- Lacuna is very insensitive as he drives people from their homes to please the imperialists so as to get a loan.
- Lacuna is brutal as he kills Judah Sen Melo to coerce his daughter Lulu to marry him.
- He detains Lulu in the palace and also imprisons Daniel Goldstein and Robert Rollerstone.
- Lacuna embezzles funds that he deposits in his own account and gives the rest to his cronies.
- He rules with an iron fist and insists on having his way and say.
- Any other relevant.

Conclusion

- Lacuna is a true reflection of a bad leader.

D	D+	4 – 5
	D	3
	D-	0 - 2

- D- (0 – 2) Chaotic. Little meaning whatsoever. Question paper or some words from it. It simply copied.
- D(3) Flow of thought almost impossible to follow. The errors are continuous.
- D+ (4 – 5) Although the English is broken and the essay is full of errors of all types, we can at least guess what the candidate wants to say.
- C- (6 – 7) The candidate obviously finds it difficult to communicate his ideas. He is seriously hampered by his very limited knowledge of structure and vocabulary. This results in many gross errors of agreement, spelling, misuse of prepositions, tenses, verb agreement and sentence construction.
- C (8) The candidate communicates but not with consistent clarity. Its linguistic abilities variety or originality. Very bookish English. Links are weak, incorrect, repeated at times.
- C+ (9 – 10) The candidate communicates clearly but in a flat and uncertain manner. Simple concept sentence forms are often strained. They may be an overuse clichés, unsuitable idioms, proverbs are misquoted or misinterpreted. The flow is jerky. There some errors of agreement, tenses, spelling.
- B- (11 – 12) The candidate communicates fairly and with some fluency. Gross errors are still found occasionally, but this must not be over punished by the teacher.
- B(13) The sentences are varied but rather simple. Straight forward. The candidate does not strain himself in an effort to impress. These is a fair range of vocabulary and idiom. Natural and effortless. Some items of merit. Economy of language.
- B+ (14 – 15) The candidate communicates his ideas pleasantly and without strain. These are errors and slips. Tenses, spelling and punctuation are quite good. A number of items of merit of whole sentence or the “Whole expression” type.
- A- (16 – 17) The candidate shows competence and fluency in using the language. He may lack imagination or originality which provide the “spark” in such essays. Vocabulary, idiom, sentence structure, links, variety, are impressive. Gross errors are very rare.
- A (18) Positive ability. A few errors that are felt to be slips. The essay has a definite impact. No grammar problem. Variety of structures. A definite spark. Many margin in ticks.
- A+ (19 – 20) There is a wide range of effective vocabulary, original, vivid and sustained account. Errors and slips should not deprive the candidate of the full marks he deserves.

Question 1

1. (a) – Must be a story if not deduct 4AD
- It must capture a situation where an individual regrets the kind of life he/she has lived and associates this to associating with bad company.
- If merely a philosophical discussion, treat as irrelevant and deduct 4AD.
- Must end with the given statement, if not deduct 2AD.

OR

- (b) Must be an expository or discursive composition

Question 2

Introduction

Communication is greatly dependent on the manner of passing the message. One of the most effective ways of communicating is by use of irony. The text Blossoms of the Savannah by H.R Ole Kulet clearly employs this style.

Content

- Olarinkoi presents himself as dependable person when he saves Resian and Taiyo from rapists. He however turns out to be a rapist himself he wants to have Resian against her will.
 - FGM which is a harmful practice to women is practiced, propagated and defended by the people it hurt most women
 - Mama Milanoi remains mum even when her daughters are harassed by her husband who wants to have them circumcised and married off to Oloisundori against their wish.
- Ole Kaelo opts to marry off his daughter Resian to Oloisundori, an ill mannered old man, in order to save his business.

Conclusion

Irony as a style is one of the major styles employed by the author to communicate his message.

QUESTION 3: OPTIONAL SET TEXTS

The pearl

Q3a. Introduction –Kino's determination to fight poverty and guarantee a future of comfort and security is rewarded with a rare find of the greatest pearl in the world. However, such determination is marked with a mad obsession that blocks him from being reasonable (sober)

Mi -A thief gets into his house and attempts to steal the pearl from where he buried it. Kino fights the thief off with a knife. He however receives a blow on his head and Juana has to nurse him. Her plea for Kino to throw the pearl "This pearl is like sin! It will destroy us" is met with a stubborn resolve to keep it.

Mii -When Kino steps out of his brush house, Juana hears a little rush, a grunting struggle and a blow. In terror, she comes out with a stone from the fire place only to find Kino on the ground struggling to rise. He had been attacked by a thief in need of the pearl. She entreats him to do away with the pearl: Let us throw it back in the sea where it belongs Kino, it is evil, it is evil! Kino is determined to defend and protect it at all costs.

Miii -At cock-crow, Kino senses his wife moving quietly to the fireplace and takes the pearl intending to throw it into the sea. He follows her, wrenches the pearl out of her hands and strikes her in the face with his clenched fist. She falls among the boulders and he kicks her in the side. He becomes violent and half insane.

Miv -As he moves away from his wife, Kino is attacked and his attackers ransack him. Luckily, the pearl drops from his hand and falls near a stone. He kills a man with his knife. Kino and his family attempt to flee from their village; but to his dismay, his canoe has a hole in it. He was an animal now, for hiding, for attacking pg.87

Mv -Kino is not ready to take advice from Juan Tomas or Juana, his wife and get rid of the pearl. He says the pearl has become his soul. "If I give it up I shall lose my soul." Pg.92

Mvi -Kino readily counters any threats to himself and his family. He ceases to be human and becomes an animal. Kino kills the three trackers in a moment of sheer madness. "....the big knife swung free in his right hand."

Introduction

Some people are not satisfied with what they have and want more all the time. Leo Toistay's short story "How much land does man need? Is a clear illustration of this.

Gi He had a farm and a house but wanted more

- He had 123 acres of land and pasture.
- As he farmed, the number of cattle kept increasing.
- He had a thought that this land was not enough.
- He wanted wider and more fertile.
- How can I have more land?

Gii He was easily convinced to go buy land from the Bashkris

- A passing dealer tells him there is cheap land in land of the Bashkris.

- 'I have to go there and buy land' he thinks.
- He enquired how to get to Bashkris and buys many presents in the market.
- He started on the journey and took his servant with him.

Gii He could not sleep, thinking of the land he would acquire

- "If I walk the whole day' what a large track I will mark off!....."
- He lay awake all night.
- When shown the land his eyes glistened; there was wide land in front of his eyes.
- "I will get the largest and the best land above all the people!"

Giv He bit more than he could chew

- He tried to get more land than his body could sustain in walking.
- He kept walking without thinking.
- He felt serious pain but pressed on.
- He threw away his coat, his shoes, his flask and his cap.
- His legs gave away beneath him and he fell forward.
- He dies after straining to get more land.

Conclusion

It is out of greed and obsession to get more land that Palom strains to get and dies tragically.

Introduction

At times independent African States find themselves in more leadership chaos than the case was during the colonial days. An example of such as State is Kutula in David Mulwa's Play Inheritance.

Content

- Lacuna brings divisions worse than during the colonial period. He openly buys an aircraft because he does not wish to be associated with his subjects whom he refers meanly.
- There are unexplained deaths that can be associated with the people in government such is like the death of Judah Zen Melo.
- Lacuna oppresses his people by making them work for longer hours for little pay.
- Lacuna's leadership is greatly tribal. Lacuna is seen to have members of his tribe in key government positions and also in the military.
- The government led by Lacuna has no development record to show. It has instead concentrated on making lives of few people better at the expense of the majority.

Conclusion

- The independence government under Lacuna proves to be worse and more oppressive than the colonial establishment.

Q 2. Compulsory Set Text BLOSSOM OF SAVANNAH

Answer Blossoms of savannah.

Introduction

People who are determined and optimistic in life achieve success in their life endeavors.

Although Resia's road to success is in pain, she finally achieves her goals in life as portrayed in Ole Kulet's Blossoms of Savannah.

Body

Resian is determined to join the university. On the day her family packs and leaves Nakuru for Nasila, Resian expresses her feelings about not working at the shop saying that she wants to come back to Nakuru and join Edgerton University. She hopes to take a course in veterinary medicine and become a veterinary doctor. She keeps urging her sister to talk to the father to enroll them at the university. At one point she is worried that her sister has spent all the money decorating the shop and leaves nothing for their University education. She tells her father that even if she lives to be eighty, she will still go to university. Finally, after a long struggle, she is able to enroll at Edgerton University for her dream course. Not giving up for her.

Resian is determined not to undergo female circumcision. She is opposed to this retrogressive practice and says that she would rather live in the noisiest place on earth than live anywhere near a vagabond who would accost her with the intention of mutilating her sexuality. Resian is optimistic that soon Nasita culture would do away with FGM as a cultural practice. While she's held captive in Olarinkoi's hut, she dreams in her sleep. In her dream she showcases her gallant and determined nature. She vows that the old enkamurātani and enkoiboni with a mallet. Her determined resistance against undergoing FGM starts bearing fruits when she and Nabaaru reach Minik's Ranch. This is after a hair-raising and daring escape on the verge of being circumcised in Olarinkoi's hut in Inkiito. She is finally safe with Emakererei. Her determination not to be circumcised has borne fruit.

Resian is determined and hopeful of meeting and working with Minik ene Nkoitoi, her role model. She dreams of graduating from University and getting a chance to work with Emakorerei. She imagines herself already working at the ranch during a large flock of sheep. She even thinks of asking for help of Joseph Parmuat in composing a song in her praise. When the ill-INTENDED Olarinkoi suggests he could rescue her from Oloisudori by taking her to Emakerereri, she jumps at the idea and falls prey to his evil plans. However after such a struggle, she is able, with the help of Nabaaru, to escape from Olarinkoi's hut and run to Minik's ranch. There, she gets her own house, a job and finally gets to enroll at her dream university and dream course. Her remaining hopes have finally paid off.

Determination not to get married to Oloisuduni forcibly has paid off for Resian. Oloisudori is an old man that Resian describes as a monster. Her father Ole kaelo, intends to give his daughter away in marriage as a 7th wife. However, she is determined to face him and resist his advances on her. She and her sister Taiyo hatch a plan to return the gifts that were part of the dowry by Oloisudori. When Oloisudori announces that his fate with Resian is sealed, she responds by telling him that he is mad. He is stunned. She tells her father that she would rather die than get married to a monster, an Ol-ushuushi like Oloisudori, a monster, gangster, bank robber and an extortionist per excellence. Oloisudori makes a final attempt to get either Resian or Taiyo for marriage from Minik's ranch, a move that sees his convoy reduced to ashes. He is thoroughly clobbered and has to run for his life. Resian has finally won the battle.

Conclusion.(sample)

It is imperative to say hopeful even in the midst of a storm. Resian, albeit struggling, succeeded because of her unwavering determination.

Q 3. Optional Set

Inheritance

David Mulwa-Inheritance.

-Can be general, specific or general to contextualized. A definition of any term is not considered as an introduction.

Accept any reasonable introduction

Sample.

Truly, some leaders are their own worst enemies. They lead to their own downfall by ruling with an iron fist, being corrupt, immoral and selfish. In so doing they have no one to blame but themselves. Lacuna is such a leader as portrayed in David Mulwa's play 'Inheritance.

Body.

1.Dictatorship.

Some leaders rule with an iron fist and this leads to their downfall. Lacuna is a dictator. He never takes 'no' for an answer in any of his advances(pg 43)He views everyone who goes against his wishes as an enemy, a dissenter, a contradictor and a show in the dark (pg 44)He even kills at will,....."a snap of my fingers and heads could roll.(pg 65)When Juda Zen Melo disobeys Lacuna, no one wants to be associated with him pg 34)It takes a very long time for lacuna to forget it and it is only after this that he is able to get a job as a gate keeper (pg 34)To make matters worse, he later orders the killing of Judah(pg 108) after he tries to seduce his daughter ,Lulu in vain. This Dictatorship is what makes his subject to have him so much that when the idea of overthrowing him comes up, they are more than willing to make it successful.

2. Tribalism

Some leaders ruin their chances by practicing tribalism. Lacuna favours his tribesmen immensely. When Lulu asks her mother's to see Lacuna so that he can help with school fees, she declines and angrily puts it that for all the years that Lacuna has been in power, he has not seen anyone but his clansmen (pg 29,71).For anyone to get any meaningful employment in Kutula,they have to be from Lacuna's tribe(pg71)Judah has to befriend lacuna's tribesman,Mithambo,a manager at the mine, for him to get to the position of machine operator (pg 34)This tribalism, which is a form of corruption, promotes poverty since people do not have equal opportunities. It makes them angry and consequently, they overthrow Lacuna.

3. Selfishness.

Some leaders are so selfish that they do not think of others but their stomachs. Little do they know that this becomes the beginning of their downfall. Lacuna borrows in the name of Kutula but only benefits himself. He takes huge loans and instead of using it to develop Kutula and help the citizen out of poverty, he stuffs most of it in his personal bank accounts in foreign countries.(pg 76) he goes ahead to buy an aircraft with this money that his subject have to sweat it out to repay (pg 72).The situation is so bad that he has to plead with the donors to give him another loan to service the interest of the one that has already been advanced to him (75).This selfishness does lacuna no good since finally, all the money he has hidden in his foreign accounts is transferred by Robert,a donor, as the donors seek to pay themselves part of the money that Kutula owes them (pg 110-111).lacuna is left as nothing but a pauper and this makes him almost lose his mind.

4. Immorality.

With money and power, some leaders become immoral. They tend to forget that all this is vanity and it will turn against them in the course of time. Lacuna is rather immoral. He wants to take Lulu by force. After the remembrance ceremony, he detains her in his palace with the intention of marrying her. Although Lacuna is advised by Malipoa not to touch Lulu as it is against the custom, he says that customs are useless and that sometimes they must bow to national emergencies (pg 57) He goes on to seduce Lulu and decides that he is going to marry her, whether she likes it or not(pg 120)This kind of immorality is wrong. It makes Lulu's mother and Sangoi so angry that when time to overthrow Lacuna comes, none of the hesitates.

Accept any other relevant point-well explained and illustrated
Mark 3;3;3;3=12 mks

Conclusion-2 mks

In conclusion, it is clear that some leaders are the ones who contribute to their own downfall. Their behavior is what makes or breaks them. Every leader must know the fact that they have a duty to their subjects and act accordingly.

The pearl

Using The Pearl by John Steinbeck, write an essay to support the proverb, "All that glitters is not gold".

Introduction (2 mks)

As the proverb states "all that glitters is not gold," we can agree with this proverb as in "The Pearl" we see that Kino gets a great pearl that can provide a better life for him and his family, however, it is through the same pearl that Kino loses everything.

Body (12 mks)

For points of interpretation (4 x 3 = 12 mks)

Kino loses his canoe. After killing a man who has attempted to steal the pearl, Kino intends to escape with the family. He finds that the canoe had been destroyed by being punctured with a hole. The boat is a prized possession to Kino and his people Pg 87. This was an evil beyond thinking. The killing of a man was not so evil as the killing of a boat, for a boat does not have soul, and a boat cannot protect itself, and a wounded boat does not heal. Kino felt sorrow in his rage.

Pg 32. Kino's canoe was the one thing of value he owned in the world. The canoe had been handed down from his grandfather to the father and family to Kino. It was at one property and source of food for a man with a boat could guarantee a woman that she will eat something. It is the bull work against starvation.

Coyotito dies. In Kino's struggle with the trackers who were out to get the pearl, Coyotito is killed. The trackers catch up with Kino as he is on his way to sell the pearl in the capital pg 114. One of the trackers shoots Coyotito thinking that it is a Coyote after he hears Coyotito's cry and thinks that it is the one of a Coyote.

Coyotito is Kino's only child and Kino loves him a lot. He goes for pearl fishing so that he can get a pearl when he can use to pay the doctor to cure him of a scorpion lot. When he gets the pearl, he intends to take Coyotito to speed and to buy his new clothes (pg 45). At the end Kino loses the very person he intends to provide a better life for.

Kino loses his home. Kino's brush house is burnt by one of the attackers and they end up finding shelter at Juan. Thomas and Apolonia's home. Pg 88. He saw a little glow ahead of him, and then without internal a tall flame leaped up in the dark with a cracking roar, a tall edifice of fire lighted the pathway. Kino broke into a run; it was his brush house, he knew it.

Kino loses his dignity. When Kino finds the "pearl of the World" all manner of people became interested in the pearl. He is attended by different dark figures who want the pearl and he ends up killing a man and the attackers pg 58, Kino held his breath to listen and he knew that whatever dark thing was in his house holding its breath too And then he sprang like an angry at. Leaped striking and sporting, for the dark thing he knew was in the corner of his house And he raised the blade and looked at it and saw a little line of blood on the steel

Pg 84, He heard the rush, got his knife out and lunged at one dark figure and he felt his knife go home.....

..... not in an instant, Juma knew that the old life was gone forever. A dead man in the path and Kino's knife, dark-bladed beside him.

He also kills the trackers pg 115. By trying to defend and pulled the pearl he ends up killing all these people

QUESTION 3 c: Memories We Lost and Other Stories.

Greed and materialism can lead to grave consequences.

In reference to the story, How Much Land Does a Man Want by Leo Tolstoy, write an extract illustrating the truth of this statement.

Introduction:

The introductory paragraph could either be general or contextualized. It must be an attempt at interpreting the question. Definitions or lifting the question will not score.

E.g. They need to amass more and more in terms of money or property is a vice that many people have. However in the pursuit of such, one ends up losing in one way or another.

Or

Pahom who had so many acres of land, and pasture still gets so interested in getting much more at a cheaper price but then had to walk to get as much land at roubles a day as possible. He exhaust himself and collapses dead in his attempt.

G1: Pahom's yearning to get more land yet he has 123 acres of land and pasture, a big house and five family members.

He thinks the land was not big enough.

Wanted wider and more fertile lands

Had the desire to farm widely and keep more livestock.

Kept on thinking about only one thing, how he can get more land

Gii: the news about 13,000 acres of land all for 1000 roubles.

- Pahom gets strongly attracted due to his greed for land
- Wonders whether it is true
- He says he must go and buy that land.

- He embarked on the journey and took his servants with him. They walked for seven days to where the land was, got the people of the town and gave them presents. The people promise to do anything for him.

Giii: The prospects of the Pahom owning a large piece of land.

- He is told that the price of the land is always the same: 1,000 rouble a day.
- One had to go round on his feet and that land covered would be his, at 1,000 roubles a day.
- One had to start at one spot, make a round and mark with a spade on the place passed.
- Once had to make as large a circuit as one pleased, but one had to return to the place one started, otherwise all would be lost.
- Pahom could not sleep thinking about how much land he would cover.

Giv: the walk

- Armed with his spade, he waited for the sun to rise and started off.
- He at some point takes off his outer coat and shoes.
- He was sweating and very thirsty.
- He was becoming tired; he ate quickly to save on time, so that he can walk a greater distance.
- It was hot, yet he must return to the place where he started.
- He started walking back in difficulty.

Giv: Regrets

- Pahom realizes time to sunset was almost gone and he began running back to the hillock
- He realizes he had tried too much
- He felt serious pain but pressed on, yet he was still far from the hillock.
- He threw away his coat, shoes and flask and cap.
- He kept only the spade which he used as support, his soaking shirt and trousers stuck to him, his heart beating like a hammer.
- He was seized with terror and he died of strain.
- He fell down and died. Because he lost his whole energy to get more land, when he got to the goal, he fell down and died.

Conclusion;

Must be a valid paragraph, related to the requirements of the quation.

In his relentless pursuit for more wealth, pahom ended up dead.

Unrelentless pursuit for materials wealth can lead to disastrous consequences

Q2. Resian is determined to go to Egerton University.

- The parents are not supporting the idea, the sister is hesitant and sluggish in fronting the idea to the father as she wishes.
- The father establishes a shop in which they are to work which she is against, tells the sister. 'I don't want to work in that shop.' Tells dad, "who spoke to you about enrolment at the university?" Tells dad on the face she will still go to the university and he will witness her graduation. She eventually goes to Egerton University which is her Nirvana.

Resian is also determined to fight against FGM and other negative Nasila cultures which she finally succeeds.

- The parents and the Nasila people purpose to circumcise her against her wish, Joseph is brought to train them and educate them about FGM and the Nasila culture, but she had no interest in this. She fears FGM and tells Taiyo to persuade the father to allow them go back to Nakuru and enrol at the university. She hates the fact that Joseph has come to teach them on the abcd of a good Nasilan wife that can please a husband. She says' No, I refuse to be taught unless at the university. We eventually see her go to her dream university.

Resian is determined to be like Emakererei. When Yeiyo Kiti tells them that she comes from the same village with Emakererei, she says she admires her and definitely wants to be like her who had succeeded in high school and joined Makerere University. The father takes dowry from Oloisudori who intends to marry her against her wish. When she expresses her disappointment to him, he beats her making her go to Nasila River to commit suicide only to be rescued by Olarinkoi who helps her escape by cheating her that he is taking her to Emakererei.

Resian has a dream of getting to Emakererei's place to see her since she is her role model. While at Olarinkoi's home, she luckily get Nabaru the nurse who takes care of her and she tells Resian that she has loved her determination and fighting spirit since she started nursing her. Nabaru tells her that she is ready to help her get what she, wants and go wherever she wants. She bites Olarinkoi's finger in defence against the rape and survives injuries from the struggle which renders her unconscious. She still finds courage to tell Nabaru to help her get to Minik's ranch. Though she is sick, she struggles to move stumbling from side to side determinedly as they escape the morning when she is to be circumcised. With the help of Nabaru, she finally gets at Emakererei's place. She welcomes them and tells the driver to bring her to the station for her to talk more with her.

Resian is determined to become a doctor - She tells the sister that she doesn't want to be a parent unless she had obtained a degree. She also says she wants to be called Doctor Resian Kaelon. Despite the father refusing to take her back to the university, her suffering while travelling with Olarinkoi, her almost being raped, she finally is given a letter of admission to Egerton university. She organises a party for the girls and as they were driven to the university on fifth September, it was hard to believe that their long cherished ambition and aspiration had at long last become a reality. This means that she is going to study her dream course.

- A passing dealer shares with Pahom how he had bought 13,000 acres of land all for 1,000 rubles. He thinks it a catch. In addition, all the lands are very fertile. He says 'I have to go there and buy land. He ends walking there for seven days.
- The leader promises to give Pahom anything he could ask for as a reward for the presents he'd given to them. He asks him not to shy asking. He chooses the fertile wide land which he had to go round it in a day before owning it.
- Pahom fantasizes making a big pasture in his newly acquired land and build a good cottage. He promises himself to walk the whole day and mark off a large tract. He lays on his bed and could not sleep. He lays awake all night and only dozes off just before dawn.
- As Pahom resumes walking after a lunch break, he keeps thinking 'An hour to suffer, a life-time to live.' He walks on and just when he was about to turn to the left again, he perceives a damp hollow. He thinks it would be a pity leaving it out as flax would do well there. A desire to get this hollow makes him not to turn.
- Pahom develops a strong desire to a mass even more land. He thus walks without thinking. He suddenly looks at the sun; it was nearly half way to the horizon. He decides to walk back. His bare feet are cut and bruised. He longed to rest but it was impossible.
- Though afraid of death, upon hearing the Bashkirs yelling and shouting him, he ran on and on as he was quite near his aim. He could see the people on the hillock waving their arms to hurry him up. He eventually reaches the beginning mark and collapses. Pahom dies and he's buried.

Aspects of moral clecadance

a) Greed and selfishness.

- Leader Lacuna and his cronies use public resources to enrich themselves.
- Lacuna is greedy for power and this makes him kill his own father, King Kutula XU in order to become the leader of Kutula.
 - Lucuna borrows moneys from foreign countries to use it for development of Kutula. However, he embezzles the money by buying an aircraft for personal use.
 - He carelessly gives money to his cronies and deposits money in foreign accounts in Canada, Swiss, Luxemburg and Manhattan. This causes suffering to the people of Kutula.
 - Due to his selfishness, Lucuna kills Judah Zen Melo for not allowing him to marry his daughter.

2. Oppression and exploitation.

- Lucuna Kasoo is an oppressive leader. He poisons his own father King Kutula XV
- The people are forced to work without rest and they only rest when they are dead.
- The black man is sentenced to work for the white man till death.
- The leaders in power forcefully take people's property. Tamina loses her house, land and cars.
- Those who raise their voices to criticize the government are in danger of being killed. Judah Zen Melo is beaten up for refusing to kill his brother Bengo who is a critic of the government. Zea Melo cannot easily find a job since nobody is willing to employ him. His land is taken.
- Lulu is forcefully locked up at Lucuna's palace. He wants to make her his wife against her wish.
- There are a lot of murders.
- Bengo is jailed.

3. Corruption.

- Lucuna borrows money meant for development but embezzles it.
- The people's sweat is poured in Lucina's porous pockets as he deposits public funds in his foreign banks.
- Bribery - Lucina wants to bribe to kill Bengo whom he considers a thorn in his leadership.
- The people are given handouts and this makes them sing praises to Lucina.
- They become blind to the truth.
- Lucina is nepotistic: He favours his own tribesmen, kinsmen and concubines.

4. Abuse of office

- Those in power disregard their subjects. They use their power to dismiss Judah Zen Melo for refusing to kill his brother.
- Chipande uses his power to purchase Tamina's land at a very cheap price. He later influences Lucina not to give anyone licence to grow coffee since he does not want competition.
- Lucina uses his power to employ his own tribesmen and kinsmen. This is after he is confronted by the employees who protest and rebel against his leadership. He sacks them all and employs his people.
- Lucina uses his power to have people killed. He orders the killing of all deserters.
- He also uses his power to remove the inhabitants of the valley so that foreigners can occupy it.
- Lucina uses his power to arrest and lock up Lulu in his palace. He wants to marry her forcefully.

5. Dictatorship / Authoritarian.

- Lucina takes over power forcefully after killing his own father, king Kutula XV
- The leaders order the killing of people.
- The people are detained arbitrary.
- Lucina uses dictatorship to freeze employees salaries after his foreign accounts are emptied by Robert
- He increases the tax of profits of companies and business and keeps it for himself.

6. Inefficiency:

- The government as lead by Kutula do not do their work well.
- Lucina takes a loan meant to fund the mining of silver. He fails to follow up the money and production of silver. He does not care whether they are making a loss or a profit.
 - When the production of silver reduces by 15%, Lucina is not aware. He only gives order without monitoring.
 - Due to his inefficiency, Lucina, does not keep records of the

c) The pearl

A persons character can at times lead to their downfall. Drawing examples from Kino's life, write an essay to justify this statement.

NB

1. The students must use adjectives of behaviour in the body.
2. Must begin with an introduction written in a separate paragraph, followed by the body which should have atleast four separate paragraphs. Each paragraph should have a negative character trait identified, illustration showing how that character is manifested and how it leads to the character's downfall.
3. The students should only focus on Kino as a character and not any other character.
4. For the conclusion, let the learner give a summary and a remedial statement in the same paragraph (concluding paragraph) to get the (2marks). If only one is given then give (1 mark)

Examples of introduction

In life, many people get into trouble just because of some of their characters. This is also well illustrated in John Steinbecks novel. The pearl, in which he presents to us a character Kino who falls into many challenges just because of his mannerism.

Kino is vengeful / racist / temperamental

- As the procession taking Coyotito to the doctor get to his gate, Kino hesitates for a moment.
This doctor is not of his people.' He was of a race which for nearly four hundred years had beaten and starved and robbed and despised Kino's race. Kino is filled with fear and anger due to the prejudice that the doctor's race had towards his race. Due to his racists and vengeful nature, he crushes the doctors gate with his fist only to injure his knuckles to an extent that they bleed. (This applies to all of the three points)

Kino is a racist - When Kino sees the doctor at his doorway after getting the great pearl, he is raged with hatred and fear for hundreds of years of subjugation were cut deep in him. He hates the doctor's race for having oppressed his race for a long time. This now makes him suffer fear and apprehension.

Kino's materialistic nature make him not sell the pearl. When he goes to sell the pearl, he turns down the pearl buyers' offer of 1000 pesos, yet the neighbours knew that it was only yesterday that he had nothing. Another dealer offers 500 pesos to him and he snatches him the pearl and wraps it in a deerskin and thrust it inside his shirt. Even when the first dealer says that he can now offer fifteen hundred pesos, Kino goes away with the pearl pushing his way through the crowd.

Kino's defiant / insensitive nature lead to the loss of their only son. Juana warns him that the pearl is evil and they should destroy it before it destroys them to which he refuses. He says he will win over it because he is a man. She even tells him a man can be killed and he insists he is a man. At the end he aims and fires between the frantic frightened eyes only to kill his son. He had even earlier on confessed to Juana Tomas that it is his misfortune but he will keep it.

Kino's brutal nature make him kill a man which agitates the neighbours forcing them to destroy his canoe and burn his house. When she follows Juana at night when she goes to throw the pearl back into the sea he beats her and she later on sees a stranger with dark shiny fluid leaking from his throat. She knows it is a dead man killed by Kino's knife which lay beside him.

He confesses to her that he killed to save his life. They plan to escape only to get his boat with a splintered hole broken in it. His house is also set of fire forcing him to seek refuge at his brother's place.

2. Blossoms of the Savannah

Introduction:

Most people reach the end of the tether in difficult situations and are just to give up when help comes. Most instances of help appear coincidental but nevertheless; they change the course of life of the character as well as shaping the rest of the novel.

Content:

- Olarinkoi seems to be at the right place at the right time. He comes to the rescue of the the two girls when they are coming from their father's shop and are about to be raped by two men.
- Olarinkoi again comes to the rescue of Resian when she discovers her father's betrayal by planning to marry her off to Oloisudori.
- Taiyo is rescued from the hands of her circumstances by Minik's have been forcefully married off to Oloisudori after healing.
- Minik gives refuge to the girls in her ranch hence protecting them from maranding men like Oloisudori and Olarinkoi.
- Mabaruru nurses Resian after physical abuse by Olarinkoi. She gives her drinks, water, milk and feeds her.

Conclusion

When people are about to despair, that is usually the point when help comes.

(a) The Short Story

Chris Wanjala: Memories We lost and Other Stories

Discuss the devastating effects that conflicts have on the innocent children and women in Mariutu Kamara's 'The President'.

- ✓ Conflicts in society arise as a result of hatred and tribal animosity. This hatred and animosity among citizens leads to unrest and violence. Such violence and conflicts have far reaching consequences and effects on the civilians, mostly children, women and the innocent. As brought out in The President, many suffer a lot.

- ✓ Members of different families are separated from each other as a result of conflict. Many people fear what is brought about by conflict and thus end up running away, and in the process they separate from each other. For instance, Adamsay is dragged away by rebels. Furthermore, Ibrahim and Mohamed are captured and tied and taken away. Kamara is also separated from Marie and Alie because of conflict.
- ✓ There are a lot of atrocities which are meted on the people during conflict. Women and girls end up being defiled, a case of Kamara where she is raped by Salieu at tender age. Many people lose their limbs, for instance rebels cut off people's hands as a way of sending a message to the president to get out of power. Many people are forced to live in an amputees' camp in free town.
- ✓ Many lives are lost. Conflict and violence leads to the killing of many people. The narrator says that she later learnt that as many as hundred people were killed that day. Rebels have no regard for human life; they just kill people.
- ✓ In line with war, children are also recruited into war as soldiers. Mostly this is done against their will and they end up missing on their childhood. Kamara is tortured and eventually amputated by child soldiers who are her age mates. She pleads with one child soldier to have mercy on her as she is his age but the child soldier hears none of that. Victims of violence and conflicts are forced to live in a camp for amputees in Freetown. This camp is full of filthy litter and full of dirty bodies. More so they are forced to beg on the streets to get what to eat.
- ✓ Children who undergo such violence like what Kamara goes through have psychological torture. Kamara mentions that she is enrolled in high school before she is swallowed by thoughts of her past and family.

It is very clear that conflicts, which are mostly fuelled by hatred has detrimental effects on innocent children and women. They are the ones who suffer the greatest brunt of such. They suffer a lot, they are handicapped, displaced from their homes, are forced to live in pathetic conditions and some even lose their lives.

(b) Inheritance

Introduction

In many African societies life does not end with mortality. The dead or ancestors play a central role in the lives of the living. They are consulted and contribute in making crucial decisions. This is the case in the play Inheritance by David Mulwa.

Content

- Lacuna decides to lead his people in making a number of years since the death of King Kutula XV. In this ceremony the living commune with the dead through pouring of libation, they are also addressed. Both Lacuna and the wife caution each other against anger at such a moment. It also becomes clear that King Kutula XV had foretold some unpleasant things to do with the kingdom, something that Lacuna hopes to talk his father out of.

- When Lacuna needs the representatives from Bukelenge Valley they all refuse to be moved from the valley because doing so will anger the ancestors. From their responses it is clear that the dead aren't happy with this. The 1st Elder says, "Let the dead guard the living from our homestead" (Pg. 85).

- The dead play an active role in doing away with the rule of Lacuna. This is clearly seen from Malipoa's courageous answer to Lacuna. Malipoa tells Lacuna, "What the silent ones killed, will be." (Pg 116)

- Lulu's father keeps appearing to Lulu even in his death because he wants her to pursue her dream and become a doctor. This gesture pushes Lulu to try and please her father.

Conclusion

The dead have a lot of say in the decisions taken by the living. For the living to be successful, the dead have to be content.

c) The Novel

John Steinbeck: The Pearl

Introduction

The things we get easily in life do not last most of the time. It is however the case that the things we strive to get are a blessing to us. This case is clearly brought out through some of the characters in John Steinbeck's text The Pearl.

Content:

- Following the sickness of Coyotito, Kino and wife set out to try their luck in getting a means of getting payment for his treatment. Juana remains hopeful that the husband will get a pearl by which they can get Coyotito treated. This does not take long as Kino gets a pearl of the world.

- Kino and the wife get moved by this discovery and hope that it will transform their lives. The villagers also hope to benefit from it. It however does not take long before Kino starts experiencing attacks at night.
- Attempts by Kino to have a good sale from the Pearl do not bear fruits as the pearl buyers can only offer one thousand pesos. His attempts to move on and sell it elsewhere turns out tragic as he is followed by trackers. The result of a confrontation with them is the death of Coyotito.
- After realizing that the pearl does not give him peace, Kino follows the wife's advice and throws the pearl back to the sea. With this, the pearl does not improve Kino's life in any way, it only disrupts it.

Conclusion

It is true that things people have not struggled enough for may not be of much benefit.
